French Hold Veteran Farm Policy Foe

Dorgeres Arrested In Probe Of Bloody Rioting In Amiens

PARIS (AP) — Government agents arrested a veteran leader of farm agitation Friday in an effort to learn whether right-wing extremists touched off the bloody Amiens rioting against President Charles de Gaulle's freeze on farm prices.

He is Henry Dorgeres, 63, the organizer of a semimilitary band of peasants called "Green Shirts" in the 1930s, a former deputy in the National Assembly and the author of two books on farmers' problems — "Up With the Hay-forks" and "Peasant Revolution."

Nabbed In Apartment

Dorgeres, who has the title Viscount d'Halluin, was nabbed in his Paris apartment and sent to Amiens, 70 miles north of this city, where more than 150 persons were injured Thursday in street fighting that involved perhaps 25,000.

Though his role was not made clear, Dorgeres was seen in Amiens at the height of the riot.

He first came to public notice as the organizer of a big strike of French truck gardeners in 1936. His Green Shirt movement claimed 400,000 members at the outbreak of World War II. Elected to Parliament as a nonparty deputy in 1956, he moved close to the right-wing shopkeepers and peasants party of tax-fighting Pierre Poujade. Defeated for re-election in 1958, he has kept contact with the extreme right in French politics.

The trouble at Amiens started after farmers from all over northern France had poured into town for a union-organized protest against the price freeze on farm products ordered by De Gaulle.

What began as an orderly march with protest banners quickly became a bloody free-for-all.

Blames Demonstrators
A communique from Interior Minister Pierre Chatenet blamed "1,500 to 2,000 demonstrators, who seemed to have nothing to do with farming" for starting the riot.

Cries of "Algeria is French" and "Vive Massu" — political issues having nothing to do with agriculture — were heard at the height of the rioting. Brig. Gen. Jacques Massu is the paratrooper general whose removal by De Gaulle last month touched off a right-wing insurrection in Algiers.

Many Persons Die In Fires

By The Associated Press

Fires caused death and destruction throughout the nation Friday. Most of the victims were children.

A family of five burned to death near Highland, N.Y., when flames of unknown origin swept their rural home. The victims were Mr. and Mrs. David Blair and their three small children.

Five children of Mr. and Mrs. Maxie Jones perished in a fire caused by an oil explosion in their home at Midway, Ga. The parents carried their two other children to safety.

Three small children died in a fire that broke out in an apartment in a crowded St. Louis tenement. Their mother, Gladys Holmes, 25, collapsed on the sidewalk when she returned from a shopping trip and saw firemen battling the blaze. Another child was safe at school.

In Ferriday, La., three sisters burned to death when flames destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. Minor Burnell. A son survived.

Fire killed another child in a New York apartment. Three others were rescued.

At Alexandria, Va., two children burned to death when a room oil heater exploded in their home.

Boy In Love Sends Airborne Valentine Wish

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—It was lunch hour in downtown Philadelphia and the streets were crowded.

Thousands of persons looked up and noticed the Piper super cruiser, flying overhead and trailing a 250-foot long, six-foot high banner. Somewhere among them surely were "Rosemary" and "Ed."

Andre Tomalino, the pilot, flew around for an hour and landed at Cross Keys Airport in nearby Glassboro, N.J. Then he explained.

"This nice-looking kid walked into our office last Saturday and gave me an order," Tomalino said. "He told me to fly over downtown Philadelphia Friday because he would be there with his girl. If the weather was bad, I was to fly over West Philadelphia next Sunday."

The message Tomalino trailed behind his plane was: "Rosemary, be my valentine. Ed."

Break Seen Soon In Coors Kidnap Case

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP)—Speculation grew stronger Friday that a break is expected soon in the mystery veiling the disappearance of wealthy Adolph Coors III three days ago.

Coors' family and investigating officers are convinced the 44-year-old, 6-foot-3 executive was kidnapped, but no one will say whether anything has been heard from any abductors.

Friday's latest development came from the missing man's attractive wife, Mary Grant Coors, mother of four children. She asked Sheriff Art Wermuth to withdraw all guards on duty at her ranch home, as well as men and equipment used to block side roads in the vicinity.

The Coors home is close to the mountains near Morrison, a village 17 miles southwest of Denver. "I am also requesting that no one interfere with any steps that might be taken to effect my husband's safe return," Mrs. Coors said.

"The safe return of my husband is my only concern."

Wermuth immediately withdrew his deputies from around the Coors residence. Scott Werner, FBI agent in charge of the federal investigation, declined comment when asked if his men had been withdrawn.

Werner will go no farther in discussing the case than to say, "We are still investigating."

Sheriff Wermuth, who is convinced that Coors is held as a hostage by kidnapers, said Thursday night he looks for a break in the case soon.

Three hours after he left home, Coors' station wagon, the engine running and the radio playing, was found abandoned on a wooden bridge over Turkey Creek.

Bloodstains were on the back of the seat, on the ground and on a section of wooden railing. Coors' glasses and a baseball-type cap he liked to wear had fallen to the creek bank below the bridge.

TV Film Team Injured In Jamaica Plane Crash

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP)—An airborne crew of top TV-movie makers from Hollywood crashed into shark-infested Caribbean waters off Jamaica's north shore near Annotto Bay Friday. Four of the five men aboard were rescued but a veteran film cameraman was reported missing.

The twin-engine Grumman Goose amphibian dived into the sea and broke up shortly before noon on a flight from a film location at Port Antonio to Montego Bay. It went under the choppy waves almost at once.

The four survivors: William Reynolds, 29, former star of the TV series "Pete Kelly's Blues."

Director Richard Bare, 46, winner of the Screen Directors' Guild award as the top TV director of 1959.

Glen Kirkpatrick of Hollywood and Winter Haven, Fla.

Howard Smith, a pilot from Anchorage, Alaska.

Missing was George Schmidt, a cameraman from Hollywood. Fishermen who had witnessed the crash from shore pulled the four men to safety. They were floating on pontoons and rubber seat cushions.

Mikoyan Says Satellite Is Not Russian

HAVANA (AP) — Anastas I. Mikoyan, Soviet first deputy premier, said Friday a mystery satellite reported speeding through space was not put up by the Soviet Union.

"The Soviet Union has no mysterious satellite," he told reporters before a scheduled TV appearance Friday night. "The world knows all about our satellites."

Washington announced earlier this week that U.S. space surveillance operations had detected an unannounced object in near-polar orbit. There has been speculation it might be of Soviet origin.

Mikoyan also told newsmen at a reception given by the Cuban Assn. of Industrialists that the Soviet Union is willing to supply war planes for Cuba.

"If we are asked," he said, "we will sell planes to Cuba."

The government of Prime Minister Fidel Castro has been seeking to buy jet fighters for months and has charged the United States with blocking the sale of such craft.

Mikoyan returned earlier from a three-day inspection of Cuba's revolutionary farm cooperatives and a side trip into the mountains.

His turboprop IL18 plane is scheduled to leave Saturday for Oslo, Norway, where Mikoyan is stopping for two days en route home to Moscow.

Jack Paar Spurns NBC Peace Offer

NEW YORK (AP) — Acid-tongued Jack Paar, center of many stormy television episodes, climaxed by his own angry walk-out Thursday night, Friday spurned all peacemaking efforts of the National Broadcasting Co.

"I am going to leave the country and go to Europe, maybe to the Mediterranean area where it's warm," said Paar at his home in suburban Bronxville.

Thousands of well-wishers sent him messages, many asking him to reconsider his announced decision to quit his show because NBC deleted one of his anecdotes Wednesday night. NBC said the story was in bad taste because it employed a double meaning involving "water closet," a British term for toilet. Paar said it was funny and "very innocent."

He indicated he doesn't want to leave television forever, and hopes to carry out a commitment for three "spectaculars."

But he made it icily clear he is through with the "Jack Paar Show" on NBC a program which has claimed as many as 6½ million late night viewers and advertising revenues of 15 million dollars a year.

Paar, who has boasted that he personally made the show one of NBC's top attractions, somewhat haggardly announced: "I need a big long rest."

Interspersing his remarks with a few more sharp jabs at NBC, Paar added: "I'm very tired but I'm relieved. There'll be no more crises, no more screaming, no more worrying whether guests are loaded, no more scenes which I never asked for anyway."

Paar slammed the door on all efforts of NBC to ease his pains. Hardly had he stalked off the program Thursday night—a scene witnessed across the country—before NBC was extending the olive branch. "It is NBC's hope that Jack Paar will reconsider his action and return to the program," a spokesman said. He repeated the assertion Friday.

Paar turned a deaf ear. He refused all phone calls from the network to his home and rejected what he said was a request from NBC's topmost executives to call upon him there. He identified these as Chairman Robert Sarnoff and President Robert Kintner.

Paar, obviously jittery, said he has had only four hours sleep in the last two nights. All he wants to do now, he said, is to go to bed.

Truck Firms Seek Strike Aid Program

Insurance Plan To Combat Major Walkouts Considered

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Trucking industry employers revealed Friday they are considering some form of strike insurance or mutual aid plan to help combat walkouts by President James R. Hoffa's Teamsters Union.

Ben Miller, American Trucking Assn. industrial relations director, said while no decision has been reached the nation's major trucking employers are discussing means for cushioning strike losses.

Miller, in a speech to the ATA's common carrier conference meeting here, said it is not so much a financial problem but one of strengthening employers' hands in contract bargaining with the Teamsters.

Have To Crawl

"We almost always have to crawl in dealing with the Teamsters," Miller told the group.

He outlined strike insurance and mutual aid plans already established by the airlines, railroads and newspapers but said all these arrangements have drawbacks when it comes to applying them to trucking. He said some type of service interruption insurance might work.

Miller cautioned that a stiffened management bargaining stand could lead to possible industry-wide Teamsters strike threats—a situation that could bring on public demand for government intervention, as in the recent steel labor controversy.

The principle of all employers' strike aid plans, Miller said, is about the same—one of sharing strike losses among employer groups in the same industry. He said a system initiated by a group of small Minnesota trucking employers didn't work because it wasn't well enough financed.

Disturbing Factor

One factor disturbing labor relations in trucking and other industries, Miller said, is the effect of the new federal labor law provision requiring honest union elections and internal procedure. He said this means higher-up officials must be more careful to satisfy their members in order to preserve their own union political positions.

Walter P. Reuther, United Auto Workers president who headed the old CIO, charged the craft unions have run out on a prior agreement to submit all interunion fights to final and binding arbitration, or decision by a neutral.

Former AFL building trades unions, on the other hand, said there has been no agreement yet on types of disputes that should be arbitrated, or whether arbitration is always a proper solution.

Lana Turner Hurt In Rough Scene

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Actress Lana Turner nursed a bruised lip and chipped tooth Friday as a result of a violent movie scene she made with Anthony Quinn.

Quinn slapped the blonde actress and smothered her scream with a kiss during filming of "Portrait in Black" at Universal-International Studios.

Asked which did the damage, Miss Turner replied, "I really don't know. It was a quick one-two, both strong."

Soviet Newspaper Claims Discovery Of New Planet

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
NEW YORK (AP) — A Soviet newspaper says Russian astronomers have discovered a new planet wheeling far out around the sun.

This would mean our sun has 10—instead of nine — sons or daughters.

American astronomers polled Friday by The Associated Press say the Russians may well be right. They all expressed a desire for more details so they could look for themselves in the international check - and - recheck spirit of science.

The nine known planets were Mercury, Venus, Earth, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, Neptune and Pluto.

Pluto is the outermost planet, wheeling in an orbit more than 3½ billion miles from the sun. It was discovered by U.S. scientists in 1930. Its existence was guessed from perturbations or influences of its gravity pull upon other planets. The reasoning was that something had to be out there.

Argentine Navy Continues Hunt For Submarine

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Anxiously awaiting new U.S. antisubmarine equipment, the Argentine navy pushed ahead Friday with its great submarine hunt in an Atlantic gulf 650 miles south-west of here.

Official secrecy shrouded the nautical hide-and-seek. Newspaper rumors peddlers and street-corner gossips rushed in to fill the news blackout with their own versions. The story virtually monopolized Argentine front pages.

The navy continued to insist that there really is a submarine lurking somewhere under the surface of the Golfo Nuevo, a 20x40-mile body of water with a 10-mile opening into the Atlantic. Since it is almost completely surrounded by land, Argentina claims the gulf as its territorial waters and thus reserves the right to attack hostile ships there.

The trouble seems to lie in finding the mystery sub. This is the 14th day since it first was reported spotted by the navy and the 11th since the navy claims to have the foreign invader bottled up.

"I'm surprised it has not been captured or escaped by now," said one foreign naval expert when asked how long a submarine can remain below the surface without coming up to recharge its batteries.

However, Argentina's navy secretary, Rear Adm. Gaston Clement, said Thursday night that the submarine — and he insisted it really was one — is forced to come up for air every 48 hours. To him this indicated the vessel had been damaged by depth charges, and he added that it had been attacked on the surface as well.

Clement predicted capture was imminent. But the day passed without any such thing.

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — The Austrian Conservative People's party Friday elected 62-year-old Parliament Deputy President Dr. Alphonse Gorbach as party chairman.

Nehru Says Settlement Is Unlikely

Conference With Khrushchev Brings No New Solution

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Indian hopes that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev might help settle the border dispute of India and Red China suffered a setback Friday.

Prime Minister Nehru told Parliament "I see no ground whatever" for a settlement now.

Khrushchev, here on a South Asian tour, had met alone with Nehru for nearly three hours. It was widely assumed they discussed the quarrel between Peiping and New Delhi over about 50,000 square miles of frontier land, a matter of grave concern here for the last six months.

Nehru did not confirm that assumption in his address to Parliament, but emphasized India's desire for a friendly solution.

No Common Ground

Saying he had recently replied to Red China's Dec. 31 call for top-level talks, he declared there is at present no common ground, no room for negotiation, nothing to negotiate.

He welcomed the Jan. 28 border agreement between Red China and Burma, saying "one conflict less is good for the world."

Many Indians have felt that Khrushchev might persuade the Soviet Union's big Asian ally to pull its troops from the Himalayan areas both India and Red China claim. But Nehru is reported to have had no such hopes—to doubt in fact that the Soviet leader has enough influence with Red China's Mao Tse-tung to change the Chinese course.

Khrushchev, looking tired but in better voice than earlier, emphasized other issues in a speech Friday afternoon at Ram Shila Park, sprawling between Old and New Delhi.

Armed Strength

He portrayed Soviet armed strength as the world's most powerful deterrent to war, and as spreading the idea of peaceful co-existence "even among advocates of the cold war."

"They have come to understand that if war is unleashed by them, the instigators and inspirers would be the first to perish in its flames," he said.

Neutral-minded Indians reacted to his reference to Soviet military might with about the same lack of enthusiasm they showed for President Eisenhower's defense of Western military alliances in the same park last December.

Nehru responded—just as he had responded to Eisenhower—with a declaration of India's non-alignment.

"India's greatest son, Buddha, taught the world the best conquest is not through the sword but conquest of the heart," Nehru said.

"We in India are trying to live up to that teaching."

After their morning meeting, Nehru and Khrushchev watched the signing of an agreement under which the Soviet Union will lend India the equivalent of 378 million dollars for India's 21-million-dollar, third five-year plan, which starts in 1961.

Bobby Clark Dies At 71

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the last of the old-time funny men, Bobby Clark, 71, died Friday.

He had been in the business of making people laugh for more than half a century. He retired about a year ago.

His wife said he had been ill with a virus condition for about three weeks, but that a heart attack caused his death.

Their vaudeville team continued until McCullough's death in 1936. Clark's favorite costume for his zany skits was a raccoon coat.

He appeared in many hit Broadway shows.

Born in Springfield, Ohio, on June 16, 1888, his formal name was Robert E. Clark. His first stage appearance was in Springfield's Grand Opera House in 1902 in the role of an attendant in "Mrs. Jarley's Waxworks."

Afterward, his career led him into minstrel shows, circuses, vaudeville and burlesque.

His widow, Angelle, to whom he was married in 1923, survives him. They had no children. The funeral time still is to be set.

"We almost always have to crawl in dealing with the Teamsters," Miller told the group.

He outlined strike insurance and mutual aid plans already established by the airlines, railroads and newspapers but said all these arrangements have drawbacks when it comes to applying them to trucking. He said some type of service interruption insurance might work.

Miller cautioned that a stiffened management bargaining stand could lead to possible industry-wide Teamsters strike threats—a situation that could bring on public demand for government intervention, as in the recent steel labor controversy.

The principle of all employers, strike aid plans, Miller said, is about the same—one of sharing strike losses among employer groups in the same industry. He said a system initiated by a group of small Minnesota trucking employers didn't work because it wasn't well enough financed.

Disturbing Factor

One factor disturbing labor relations in trucking and other industries, Miller said, is the effect of the new federal labor law provision requiring honest union elections and internal procedure. He said this means higher-up officials must be more careful to satisfy their members in order to preserve their own union political positions.

Walter P. Reuther, United Auto Workers president who headed the old CIO, charged the craft unions have run out on a prior agreement to submit all inter-union fights to final and binding arbitration, or decision by a neutral.

Former AFL building trades unions, on the other hand, said there has been no agreement yet on types of disputes that should be arbitrated, or whether arbitration is always a proper solution.

Lana Turner Hurt In Rough Scene

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Actress Lana Turner nursed a bruised lip and chipped tooth Friday as a result of a violent movie scene she made with Anthony Quinn.

Quinn slapped the blonde actress and smothered her scream with a kiss during filming of "Portrait in Black" at Universal-International Studios.

Soviet Newspaper Claims Discovery Of New Planet

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
NEW YORK (AP) — A Soviet newspaper says Russian astronomers have discovered a new planet wheeling far out around the sun.

This would mean our sun has 10—instead of nine—sons or daughters.

American astronomers polled Friday by The Associated Press say the Russians may well be right.

They all expressed a desire for more details so they could look for themselves in the international check-and-recheck spirit of science.

The nine known planets were Mercury, Venus, Earth, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, Neptune and Pluto.

Pluto is the outermost planet, wheeling in an orbit more than 3½ billion miles from the sun. It was discovered by U.S. scientists in 1930. Its existence was guessed from perturbations or influences of its gravity pull upon other planets. The reasoning was that something had to be out there.

Argentine Navy Continues Hunt For Submarine

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Anxiously awaiting new U.S. antisubmarine equipment, the Argentine navy pushed ahead Friday with its great submarine hunt in an Atlantic gulf 650 miles southwest of here.

Official secrecy shrouded the nautical hide-and-seek. Newspapers, rumor-peddlers and street-corner gossips rushed in to fill the news blackout with their own versions. The story virtually monopolized Argentine front pages.

The navy continued to insist that there really is a submarine lurking somewhere under the surface of the Golfo Nuevo, a 29x40-mile body of water with a 10-mile opening into the Atlantic. Since it is almost completely surrounded by land, Argentina claims the gulf as its territorial waters and thus reserves the right to attack hostile ships there.

The trouble seems to lie in finding the mystery sub. This is the 14th day since it first was reported spotted by the navy and the 11th since the navy claims to have the foreign invader bottled up.

"I'm surprised it has not been captured or escaped by now," said one foreign naval expert when asked how long a submarine can remain below the surface without coming up to recharge its batteries.

However, Argentina's navy secretary, Rear Adm. Gaston Clement, said Thursday night that the submarine — and he insisted it really was one — is forced to come up for air every 48 hours. To him this indicated the vessel had been damaged by depth charges, and he added that it had been attacked on the surface as well.

Clement predicted capture was imminent. But the day passed without any such thing.

Gorbach Named Party Chairman

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — The Austrian Conservative People's party Friday elected 62-year-old Parliament Deputy President Dr. Alphons Gorbach as party chairman.

Gorbach succeeds Chancellor Julius Raab, 68, who has headed Austria's strongest party since 1962. Raab remains chancellor.

Nehru Says Settlement Is Unlikely

Conference With Khrushchev Brings No New Solution

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Indian hopes that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev might help settle the border dispute of India and Red China suffered a setback Friday.

Khrushchev, here on a South Asian tour, had met alone with Nehru for nearly three hours. It was widely assumed they discussed the quarrel between Peking and New Delhi over about 50,000 square miles of frontier land, a matter of grave concern here for the last six months.

No Common Ground

Saying he had recently replied to Red China's Dec. 31 call for top-level talks, he declared there is at present no common ground, no room for negotiation, nothing to negotiate.

He welcomed the Jan. 28 border agreement between Red China and Burma, saying "one conflict less is good for the world."

Many Indians have felt that Khrushchev might persuade the Soviet Union's big Asian ally to pull its troops from the Himalayan areas both India and Red China claim. But Nehru is reported to have had no such hopes—to doubt in fact that the Soviet leader has enough influence with Red China's Mao Tse-tung to change the Chinese course.

Khrushchev, looking tired but in better voice than earlier, emphasized other issues in a speech Friday afternoon at Ram Shila Park, sprawling between Old and New Delhi.

Armed Strength

He portrayed Soviet armed strength as the world's most powerful deterrent to war, and as spreading the idea of peaceful co-existence "even among advocates of the cold war."

"They have come to understand that if war is unleashed by them, the instigators and inspirers would be the first to perish in its flames," he said.

Neutral-minded Indians reacted to his reference to Soviet military might with about the same lack of enthusiasm they showed for President Eisenhower's defense of Western military alliances in the same park last December.

Nehru responded—just as he had responded to Eisenhower — with a declaration of India's non-alignment.

"India's greatest son, Buddha, taught the world the best conquest is not through the sword but conquest of the heart," Nehru said.

"We in India are trying to live up to that teaching."

After their morning meeting, Nehru and Khrushchev watched the signing of an agreement under which the Soviet Union will lend India the equivalent of 373 million dollars for India's 21-million-dollar, third five-year plan, which starts in 1961.

Bobby Clark Dies At 71

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the last of the old-time funny men, Bobby Clark, 71, died Friday.

He had been in the business of making people laugh for more than half a century. He retired about a year ago.

His wife said he had been ill with a virus condition for about three weeks, but that a heart attack caused his death.

Clark won his fame as a member of the old burlesque comedy team of Clark & McCullough, which he and Paul McCullough formed in 1906.

Their vaudeville team continued until McCullough's death in 1936. Clark's favorite costume for his zany skits was a raccoon coat.

He appeared in many hit Broadway shows.

Born in Springfield, Ohio, on June 16, 1888, his formal name was Robert E. Clark. His first stage appearance was in Springfield's Grand Opera House in 1902 in the role of an attendant in "Mrs. Jarley's Waxworks."

Afterward, his career led him into minstrel shows, circuses, vaudeville and burlesque.

His widow, Angele, to whom he was married in 1923, survives him. They had no children. The funeral time still is to be set.

Sahara Barred To Flights; Set For Bomb Tests

PARIS (AP)—The vast Sahara Desert where France intends to test her atomic bomb was barred to air flights Friday.

French civil air authorities distributed a communique warning airlines that a test could be expected anytime after 6:30 a.m., which is just after dawn on the Sahara.

At the test site of Reggane some 600 technicians have been awaiting favorable weather for the test.

Once before the French made a similar announcement which turned out to be a drill for the airlines.

The test explosion has been opposed by the U.N. General Assembly.

The French have insisted they would wait on the most favorable weather to insure minimum fallout from their explosion.

Indications are that the explosion, when it comes, may be somewhat larger than the U.S. blast over Hiroshima in World War II.

The blast was equal to about 20,000 tons of TNT.

The desert area barred to air travel measures roughly 1,250 miles from east to west and 1,500 miles from north to south.

Patrols have been sent through the area to warn off nomad tribes.

Despite French official claims that the area is sparsely populated the French left-wing but non-Communist newspaper France Observateur said some 20,000 people have been evacuated.

The bomb may hardly be a bomb in the conventional sense. It is large and unwieldy and carefully assembled on the top of a 300-foot tower.

Baltimore Homes Are Burglarized

BALTIMORE (AP)—Baltimore County police Friday investigated burglaries in two Pikesville homes in which an estimated $10,000 in cash and goods was stolen.

The homes of Earl Kovens and his neighbor, Charles Mogul, were burglarized Thursday night by thieves who ransacked the homes in search of money and jewelry.

Mrs. Kovens estimated that $8,250 in clothing and jewelry was stolen from her home. Mogul said the loss from his home included jewelry, whisky and wine.

Finch Defense Will Call Two More Witnesses

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Only two witnesses remain to be heard in defense of Dr. R. Bernard Finch. Thus there may be only one more week's testimony in the sensational trial of the society physician and his mistress, shapely Carole Tregoff.

Both are charged with murder and conspiracy — accused of slaying the doctor's wife, Barbara Jean, to keep from losing a big share of the doctor's wealth in a divorce dispute.

The handsome, 42-year-old surgeon Thursday completed his eighth — and last — grueling day on the witness stand. The court closed Friday because of Lincoln's Birthday.

After the doctor's attorney calls two more witnesses, Miss Tregoff's counsel will have their turn.

Will they call the young defendant to the stand?

Her attorneys insist they have not decided yet. Miss Tregoff, a 23-year-old former model and receptionist, doesn't have to testify unless she wants to.

She is the only one who could support Dr. Finch's story that he and Carole went to the home of his estranged wife in suburban West Covina last July 18 to try and talk his wife into a quick Nevada divorce.

The doctor said that when he and Carole met Mrs. Finch in the garage of the home, she pulled a pistol on him. The pistol discharged accidentally when he snatched it from her and tried to throw it away, the doctor testified.

The state charges that it was Finch who drew the gun — and that Carole helped him by bringing to the scene an attaché case it calls a "murder kit." The case contained pistol bullets, clothesline, a butcher knife, flashlight, a hammer, sleep-inducing drugs and hypodermics, Dr. Finch said.

Carole admitted at the doctor's preliminary hearing that she carried the case up the hill to the doctor's home. She was promptly arrested and charged with murder. After a lengthy court fight, the transcript of the hearing was ruled inadmissible.

The state also suggested cryptically that Lynn was not the only object of the 31-year-old Van Rie's attention during their long voyage together last summer from the Orient.

As to Miss Kauffman's death, Asst. Dist. Atty. John F. McAuliffe told an all-male jury trying Van Rie for his life on first-degree murder charges: "This defendant beat this girl into helplessness and then he dumped her over the rail."

That was last Sept. 18 as Van Rie's ship, the Dutch freighter Utrecht, was leaving Boston on the last leg of her long journey from Singapore to New York. The girl's body, clad in shorts and slippers, was found washed ashore next day on barren Spectacle Island in Boston harbor.

After the girl was missed aboard ship, Van Rie utilized his position as radio operator to send out misleading messages "that would lead those in search of this girl to search where she would not be found."

McAuliffe omitted any discussion of a motive in the alleged beating of Miss Kauffman. Authorities have said, however, the pair quarreled over Lynn's possible pregnancy. Medical examination after her death showed she was not pregnant.

The prosecutor, in his 34-minute opening statement in the trial's third day, said at one point: "A comparison was made by the defendant regarding his relationship with this girl and others, also pertinent to this case, and the names and identities of these also will be made known to you."

McAuliffe did not indicate whether the others were aboard the Utrecht or ashore at her points of call. The only other women aboard the ship were an American Army sergeant's wife, traveling with her husband, and Juanita Spector, wife of Lynn's employer and benefactor, Dr. Stanley Spector of Washington University in St. Louis, Mo. Dr. Spector was not aboard.

The North Carolina-born passive resistance movement also spread into South Carolina — thus into the heartland of the Deep South's total segregation — and into a ninth North Carolina city. White spectators heckled the Negroes in each new location.

The arrests occurred in the Cameron Village shopping center near the F. W. Woolworth Co. store. Virtually all of the Negroes are students at St. Augustine's College or Shaw University.

There is no law barring the peaceful demonstrations, as such. But the police explained that the shopping center is private property and when the demonstrators refused an official's request to leave the area they were arrested.

Malcolm L. Seawell, the state's outspoken attorney general, had informed merchants they could order arrests for trespassing, and that under state law they have the right to sell or refuse to sell to anyone.

White groups taunted the Negro demonstrators who appeared for the first time in Rock Hill, S.C. and Concord, N.C.

State Claims Van Rie Posed As Bachelor

BOSTON (AP)—Dutch seafarer Willem Van Rie, the state claimed Friday, posed as a bachelor to lure pretty Lynn Kauffman into a shipboard love affair that ended in her death.

"I said a lot to her, but I told her nothing," the handsome ship's radio operator was quoted as saying of his alleged illicit relationship with the vivacious 23-year-old American divorcee.

Chessman Attorney Hits Law Which Denied Appeal

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Carol Chessman's attorney filed in U.S. Court of Appeals Friday an attack on the constitutionality of a law under which Chessman has been denied an appeal. Chessman is scheduled to die in the San Quentin prison gas chamber next Friday.

Attorney George T. Davis also filed with Justice Hugo Black of the U.S. Supreme Court notification that he is challenging the constitutionality of the law.

Davis also asked a stay of Chessman's execution so the court may have time to rule on his challenge.

The attorney attacked the Feb. 8 decision of Chief Justice Richard H. Chambers of U.S. Court of Appeals at Tucson, Ariz. Chambers denied Chessman a stay of execution and also denied him a certificate of probable cause.

The certificate of probable cause, if granted, would have permitted Chessman to appeal from a decision by U.S. Dist. Judge Louis E. Goodman in San Francisco Jan. 29 turning down Chessman's petition for habeas corpus.

Davis said this is the first time a federal statute has been challenged in the Chessman case.

Sahara Barred To Flights; Set For Bomb Tests

PARIS (AP)—The vast Sahara Desert where France intends to test her atomic bomb was barred to air flights Friday.

French civil air authorities distributed a communique warning airlines that a test could be expected anytime after 6:30 a.m., which is just after dawn on the Sahara.

At the test site of Reggane some 600 technicians have been awaiting favorable weather for the test.

Once before the French made a similar announcement which turned out to be a drill for the airlines.

The test explosion has been opposed by the U.N. General Assembly.

The French have insisted they would wait on the most favorable weather to insure minimum fallout from their explosion.

Indications are that the explosion, when it comes, may be somewhat larger than the U.S. blast over Hiroshima in World War II.

The blast was equal to about 20,000 tons of TNT.

The desert area barred to air travel measures roughly 1,250 miles from east to west and 1,500 miles from north to south.

Patrols have been sent through the area to warn off nomad tribes.

Despite French official claims that the area is sparsely populated the French left-wing but non-Communist newspaper France Observateur said some 20,000 people have been evacuated.

Baltimore Homes Are Burglarized

BALTIMORE (AP)—Baltimore County police Friday investigated burglaries in two Pikesville homes in which an estimated $10,000 in cash and goods was stolen.

The homes of Earl Kovens and his neighbor, Charles Mogul, were burglarized Thursday night by thieves who ransacked the homes in search of money and jewelry. Mrs. Kovens estimated that $8,250 in clothing and jewelry was stolen from her home. Mogul said the loss from his home included jewelry, whisky and wine.

Finch Defense Will Call Two More Witnesses

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Only two witnesses remain to be heard in defense of Dr. R. Bernard Finch. Thus there may be only one more week's testimony in the sensational trial of the society physician and his mistress, shapely Carole Tregoff.

Both are charged with murder and conspiracy — accused of slaying the doctor's wife, Barbara Jean, to keep from losing a big share of the doctor's wealth in a divorce dispute.

The handsome, 42-year-old surgeon Thursday completed his eighth — and last — grueling day on the witness stand. The court closed Friday because of Lincoln's Birthday.

After the doctor's attorney calls two more witnesses, Miss Tregoff's counsel will have their turn.

Will they call the young defendant to the stand?

Her attorneys insist they have not decided yet. Miss Tregoff, a 23-year-old former model and receptionist, doesn't have to testify unless she wants to.

She is the only one who could support Dr. Finch's story that he and Carole went to the home of his estranged wife in suburban West Covina last July 18 to try and talk his wife into a quick Nevada divorce.

The doctor said that when he and Carole met Mrs. Finch in the garage of the home, she pulled a pistol on him. The pistol discharged accidentally when he snatched it from her and tried to throw it away, the doctor testified.

The state charges that it was Finch who drew the gun — and that Carole helped him by bringing to the scene an attaché case it calls a "murder kit." The case contained pistol bullets, clothesline, a butcher knife, flashlight, a hammer, sleep-inducing drugs and hypodermics. Dr. Finch said Carole admitted at the doctor's preliminary hearing that she carried the case up the hill to the doctor's home. She was promptly arrested and charged with murder. After a lengthy court fight the transcript of the hearing was ruled inadmissible.

The state also suggested cryptically that Lynn was not the only object of the 31-year-old Van Rie's attention during their long voyage together last summer from the Orient.

As to Miss Kauffman's death, Asst. Dist. Atty. John F. McAuliffe told an all-male jury trying Van Rie for his life on first-degree murder charges: "This defendant beat this girl into helplessness and then he dumped her over the rail."

That was last Sept. 18 as Van Rie's ship, the Dutch freighter Utrecht, was leaving Boston on the last leg of her long journey from Singapore to New York. The girl's body, clad in shorts and slippers, was found washed ashore next day on barren Spectacle Island in Boston harbor.

After the girl was missed aboard ship, McAuliffe told the jury, Van Rie utilized his position as radio operator to send out misleading messages "that would lead those in search of this girl to search where she would not be found."

McAuliffe omitted any discussion of a motive in the alleged beating of Miss Kauffman. Authorities have said, however, the pair quarreled over Lynn's possible pregnancy. Medical examination after her death showed she was not pregnant.

The prosecutor, in his 34-minute opening statement in the trial's third day, said at one point: "A comparison was made by the defendant regarding his relationship between this girl and others, also pertinent to this case, and the names and identities of these also will be made known to you."

McAuliffe did not indicate whether the others were aboard the Utrecht or ashore at her points of call. The only other women aboard the ship were an American Army sergeant's wife, traveling with her husband, and Juanita Spector, wife of Lynn's employer and benefactor, Dr. Stanley Spector of Washington University in St. Louis. Mo. Dr. Spector was not aboard.

The North Carolina-born passive resistance movement also spread into South Carolina — thus into the heartland of the Deep South's total segregation — and into a ninth North Carolina city. White spectators heckled the Negroes in each new location.

The arrests occurred in the Cameron Village shopping center near the F. W. Woolworth Co. store. Virtually all of the Negroes are students at St. Augustine's College or Shaw University.

There is no law barring the peaceful demonstrations, as such. But the police explained that the shopping center is private property and when the demonstrators refused an official's request to leave the area they were arrested.

Malcolm L. Seawell, the state's outspoken attorney general, had informed merchants they could order arrests for trespassing, and that under state law they have the right to sell or refuse to sell to anyone.

White groups taunted the Negro demonstrators who appeared for the first time in Rock Hill, S.C. and Concord, N.C.

State Claims Van Rie Posed As Bachelor

BOSTON (AP)—Dutch seafarer Willem Van Rie, the state claimed Friday, posed as a bachelor to lure pretty Lynn Kauffman into a shipboard love affair that ended in her death.

"I said a lot to her, but I told her nothing," the handsome ship's radio operator was quoted as saying of his alleged illicit relationship with the vivacious 23-year-old American divorcee.

Tuckers Corners is in the heart of the Hudson Valley apple country across the Hudson from Poughkeepsie. Capozzi said Blair was a trucker for a fruit firm in Highland, N.Y.

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Police jailed seven persons Thursday night in the bombing of 10 trucks in a newspaper strike and said Friday night more arrests may follow.

Deputy Sheriff Ard Pratt said two or three more arrests can be expected.

One of those arrested was Levi S. McDonald, member of the Stereotypers Union negotiating committee, who was charged with hiring the others to set off the dynamite Jan. 31.

McDonald insisted he was innocent.

Two young mothers, who said they had just gone along in the car when their husbands set off to do the dynamiting were among those arrested.

The bombed trucks were owned by two firms that haul for Portland's two struck newspapers. The papers are publishing a joint edition behind union picket lines.

Maryland Has Top Industry Plant Locations

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The director of the new State Department of Economic Development said Friday Maryland has three major industrial advantages to be sold industries looking for plant locations.

George Hubley, who became director of the department Feb. 1, outlined them as the state's location, its proximity to the nation's capital and its variety in plant site selections.

Hubley said his department plans to put special emphasis on these advantages in promoting an "orderly, sound economic growth" in the state.

He spoke at a luncheon meeting here for legislators, county and civic leaders in Southern Maryland. It was the third regional meeting held this week by the economic development commission headed by Harry Boswell.

The state, Hubley said, is ideally situated between the expanding South, the populous East and the growing Midwest.

Its proximity to the nation's capital, he said, is becoming more significant as more and more industries are doing business with the federal government.

Secrets Of Charm
by John Robert Powers

Too Old For Valentines?
Too old for Valentines, you say to yourself? Never! A woman is never too old to be lovely and beloved. It's time to cut out the cardboard heart of nostalgia. It's childish to count youth years alone.

Maturity mustn't chide itself. . . it must cherish its gifts of fulfillment and acceptance. These are the years to DO and to BE all that gives a searching youth its pain and discontent.

Who can measure beauty by simple arithmetic? It is truly mere subtraction of once-chestnut hair? The addition of character wrinkles and laugh lines? The multiplication of a midriff? These are the sums of beauty on the surface. Important . . . yes. But they can be changed, modified, minimized . . . when there is a will made keen with interest, made flexible with ingenuity. It needn't be a matter of unbalanced vanity nor of great expense . . . just regular thoughtful care of health and well-being. You are encouraged by a revolutionary approach in the art of good grooming, so that your appearance may implement your charm and wisdom.

And just think of the joyous gratification maturity can lend your mirror-image! You've grown beyond the slavish spell of insecurity . . . to the age and stage for an individual style of your own. You can dare to be different! You can dare to remain the same!

Experience has endowed you with a sense of proportion . . . and, best of all, a sense of humor! You've learned at last to make fashion serve YOU . . . with the confidence that is the very core of chic.

And now you have TIME. I don't mean leisure-time, for a woman is always busy. I do mean time-in-perspective, time-in-patience. Blessed serenity, purpose, direction . . . an instinctive appreciation for the value of every minute . . . of waiting for each minute to return full value in vivid living.

If this is a land and a century that worships youth, we must blame ourselves. Far better is the European attitude that recognizes youth for what it is, a glorious episode in preparation. A girl in her teens and twenties is a blank canvas. They look to the woman in her forties, her fifties . . . yes, her sixties . . . for the portrait!

Still we can credit this land and this century for widening the scope for every American woman in her middle years. Thanks to modern advances in health, education and welfare, she can expect longer life, better health, ever-growing opportunities for careers and service.

A heart unchained from foolish envy, from mournful regret, is a heart free to love and to give. THIS is the heart of beauty . . . THIS is your Valentine.

Group Has Pa. Dutch Program

A program on Pennsylvania Dutch art featured the meeting of the Antique Study Group of the Frostburg - Georges Creek Branch of the American Association of University Women, held at the home of Mrs. Raymond M. Sauder, Centennial Street, Wednesday.

Secrets Of Charm

Too Old For Valentines?

Too old for Valentines, you say to yourself? Never! A woman is never too old to be lovely and beloved. It's time to cut out the cardboard heart of nostalgia. It's childish to count youth by years alone.

Maturity mustn't chide itself. . . it must cherish its gifts of fulfillment and acceptance. These are the years to DO and to BE all that gives a searching youth its pain and discontent.

Who can measure beauty by simple arithmetic? It is truly mere subtraction of once-chestnut hair? The addition of character wrinkles and laugh lines? The multiplication of a midriff? These are the sums of beauty on the surface. Important . . . yes. But they can be changed, modified, minimized . . . when there is a will made keen with interest, made flexible with ingenuity. It needn't be a matter of unbalanced vanity nor of great expense . . . just regular thoughtful care of health and well-being. You are encouraged by a revolutionary approach in the art of good grooming, so that your appearance may implement your charm and wisdom.

And just think of the joyous gratification maturity can lend your mirror-image! You've grown beyond the slavish spell of insecurity . . . to the age and stage for an individual style of your own. You can dare to be different! You can dare to remain the same!

Experience has endowed you with a sense of proportion . . . and, best of all, a sense of humor! You've learned at last to make fashion serve YOU . . . with the confidence that is the very core of chic.

And now you have TIME. I don't mean leisure-time, for a woman is always busy. I do mean time-in-perspective, time-in-patience. Blessed serenity, purpose, direction . . . an instinctive appreciation for the value of every minute . . . of waiting for each minute to return full value in vivid living.

If this is a land and a century that worships youth, we must blame ourselves. Far better is the European attitude that recognizes youth for what it is, a glorious episode in preparation. A girl in her teens and twenties is a blank canvas. They look to the woman in her forties, her fifties . . . yes, her sixties . . . for the portrait!

Still we can credit this land and this century for widening the scope for every American woman in her middle years. Thanks to modern advances in health, education and welfare, she can expect longer life, better health, ever-growing opportunities for careers and service.

A heart unchained from foolish envy, from mournful regret, is a heart free to love and to give. THIS is the heart of beauty . . . THIS is your Valentine.

Group Has Pa. Dutch Program

A program on Pennsylvania Dutch art featured the meeting of the Antique Study Group of the Frostburg - Georges Creek Branch of the American Association of University Women, held at the home of Mrs. Raymond M. Sauder, Centennial Street, Wednesday.

Two natives of the Pennsylvania Dutch country, now residents of Frostburg, Mrs. Esther Kachline and Mrs. Sauder, formed the panel, discussing the European origin of the Pennsylvania Dutch. They included the early years in this country, customs, furniture and a study of the way of life.

On display were some of the Sauder heirlooms. They included two hand woven linen table cloths, a hand woven woolen coverlet, and throughout the house were articles of Pennsylvania Dutch art craftsmanship, as trays, tea kettles, miniature furniture and literature on the subject.

The refreshment table was centered with an arrangement of red carnations and white candles. Napkins of Dutch motif were sent for the occasion from York, Pa. The refreshments also were in keeping with the theme.

Miss Kathleen Wolfe was chairman of the social committee. Other members were Dr. Hazel G. Ramsey, Mrs. Mary Krumpach, Miss Mabel Myers, Mrs. Irma Schlosstein, Miss Catherine Wilson and Miss Elizabeth Workman. Miss Virginia Kay Neff, group chairman, sponsored the affair.

TEACHER, I KNOW!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Chapter	Verses
Sunday	Proverbs	8	9-11
Monday	Job	8	10-11
Tuesday	Ephesians	4	14-15
Wednesday	I Corinthians	3	9-11
Thursday	I Thessalonians	3	9-10
Friday	Hebrews	10	35-37
Saturday	Matthew	25	45-46

You can almost hear their voices, and see their eyes sparkle. They have confidence because they have studied their lessons. Questions do not worry them—they know!

Will they be as confident when it comes to the more serious questions of adult life? Those who grow up in the Church and give God His rightful place are building on a firm foundation. In His House they "increase in wisdom and stature and in favor with God and man." There is no substitute for the Christian precepts and ideals taught by your church.

But what about those who lack this training? Will life seem difficult to them because they lack the confidence which comes from a knowledge of God and His teachings?

Do your children have the advantage of this confidence?

TEACHER, I KNOW!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Chapter	Verses
Sunday	Proverbs	8	9-11
Monday	Job	8	10-11
Tuesday	Ephesians	4	14-15
Wednesday	I Corinthians	3	9-11
Thursday	I Thessalonians	3	9-10
Friday	Hebrews	10	35-37
Saturday	Matthew	25	45-46

You can almost hear their voices, and see their eyes sparkle. They have confidence because they have studied their lessons. Questions do not worry them—they know!

Will they be as confident when it comes to the more serious questions of adult life? Those who grow up in the Church and give God His rightful place are building on a firm foundation. In His House they "increase in wisdom and stature and in favor with God and man." There is no substitute for the Christian precepts and ideals taught by your church.

But what about those who lack this training? Will life seem difficult to them because they lack the confidence which comes from a knowledge of God and His teachings?

Do your children have the advantage of this confidence?

Mayor Robert D. Peebles informed the council members that he attended several meetings to discuss the hospital problem and he favors legislation calling for continued state support.

Commissioner Benjamin H. Evans Jr. will investigate several complaints received at the council meeting, concerning roadways at Scotch Hill and sewerage on Island Street.

Commissioner Benjamin H. Zarger reported on progress of the survey to determine the need for renumbering houses in certain areas and after consulting the postmaster, Edward McPartland, it was suggested that an up-to-date map of Lonaconing be drawn, and then proceed with house renumbering where necessary.

Cooperation of motorists parking for more than brief periods of time at the Lonaconing Post Office is sought by the mayor and council because of the congestion caused, especially when school buses are enroute through the main thoroughfare. Illegal parking in front of the post office hinders the buses from picking up children waiting for parochial school buses.

Mayor Peebles, representative of the county planning and zoning commission meetings, related the benefits Lonaconing will derive from the new setup.

Lonaconing will favor the county planning and zoning project which will aid industries seeking new sites by providing necessary facilities information.

Finance Commissioner James Berry approved and had distributed the financial report for December and January.

A letter was read from Lonaconing Rotary Club that they favor fluoridation of the community's water. The mayor and council seek the opinion of the public for and against fluoridation, by the next meeting on March 7.

Sgt. Webb Is Acquitted

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Former State Police Sgt. W. S. (Bill) Webb was acquitted Thursday of a charge that he accepted money from South Charleston gambler Harold Harbin to overlook alleged gambling operations. Prosecutor Charles Walker, following the verdict, asked that a bribery indictment against Harbin be dismissed. The request was granted by Kanawha County Intermediate Judge William J. Thompson.

Walker said he made the request "because if a public official such as a State Policeman could accept money from a gambler and a jury acquit him, then I don't see how I could conscientiously or successfully prosecute a gambler for the same transactions."

The jury deliberated two hours and 45 minutes before reaching a verdict in Webb's second trial. His first late last year ended in a hung jury.

At both trials, Webb contended that he borrowed $19,500 from Harbin to lend to former South Charleston auto dealer E. H. T. Crowder.

Harbin also testified that the money was in the form of a loan and was not a bribe.

W.Va. Judge Rules Prisoner Can't Wed

WHEELING, W. Va. (UPI)—Ohio County Intermediate Judge David A. McKee refused Thursday to permit the marriage of a prisoner confined to the county jail.

The request was made by expectant father Howard Doughty of Martins Ferry, Ohio, during his arraignment on a robbery charge.

McKee told Doughty, 24, it was not the policy of his court to allow such marriages. Doughty said he and his fiancée had already received blood tests and secured a marriage license. However, he now must await the outcome of the charges against him before he can marry.

He was indicted with a Wheeling man in connection with the $2,000 armed robbery of a Wheeling supermarket.

Sgt. Webb Is Acquitted

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — Former State Police Sgt. W. S. (Bill) Webb was acquitted Thursday of a charge that he accepted money from South Charleston gambler Harold Harbin to overlook alleged gambling operations. Prosecutor Charles Walker, following the verdict, asked that a bribery indictment against Harbin be dismissed. The request was granted by Kanawha County Intermediate Judge William J. Thompson.

Walker said he made the request "because if a public official such as a State Policeman could accept money from a gambler and a jury acquit him, then I don't see how I could conscientiously or successfully prosecute a gambler for the same transactions."

The jury deliberated two hours and 45 minutes before reaching a verdict in Webb's second trial. His first late last year ended in a hung jury.

At both trials, Webb contended that he borrowed $19,500 from Harbin to lend to former South Charleston auto dealer E. H. T. Crowder.

Harbin also testified that the money was in the form of a loan and was not a bribe.

W.Va. Judge Rules Prisoner Can't Wed

WHEELING, W. Va. (UPI) — Ohio County Intermediate Judge David A. McKee refused Thursday to permit the marriage of a prisoner confined to the county jail.

The request was made by expectant father Howard Doughty of Martins Ferry, Ohio, during his arraignment on a robbery charge.

McKee told Doughty, 24, it was not the policy of his court to allow such marriages.

Doughty said he and his fiancée had already received blood tests and secured a marriage license. However, he now must await the outcome of the charges against him before he can marry.

He was indicted with a Wheeling man in connection with the $2,000 armed robbery of a Wheeling supermarket.

Session Termed Miserable Failure

By HERB LITTLE

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—Nobodies taxes were raised, but two scheduled tax cuts for business were postponed a year. And it was decided that State liquor store patrons soon must start paying about 5 per cent more for their favorite brands.

One small sop of tax relief was voted. Starting July 1, some home-mix products no longer will be subject to the soft drinks tax. But the largest class of these preparations which housewives buy to mix beverages for the youngsters at home still will be taxed.

That sums up the pocketbook effects of the 30-day session of the West Virginia Legislature which ended late Thursday night.

The state's legion of unemployed, who were the main concern of the legislators' oratory and occasionally of their actions, had a $4,350,000 relief program voted for their benefit. Much of the money will be spent on public works projects to give temporary $1-an-hour jobs to the most needy of the jobless.

In dollar terms, the relief program voted by the Democratic Legislature amounted to little more than one-third of what Republican Gov. Underwood urged as a minimum undertaking. Democrats were fond of talking of the "crash program" they were shaping up. Whether the result is loud enough to be called a crash may be a campaign issue.

State Republican Chairman Daniel L. Louchery of Clarksburg, borrowing a phrase from an ex-president in the other party, is calling it a "do-nothing" legislature. The attempt to cope with West Virginia's economic problems, said Louchery, was "a miserable failure by any standard of measurement."

strument of their happiness — otherwise they would never have made public the background of this child which must now follow it to its grave."

During the various court proceedings, it was brought out that Rosemary was the illegitimate daughter of a school teacher.

Underwood concluded by asking the Isners to cooperate with DPA workers to make Rosemary's transition to a new home "as painless as possible."

"Much depends on their attitude," he said. "The child can be permanently helped or further injured by their choice."

The Isners, notified Friday by telegram of Underwood's decision, attempted to adopt Rosemary but the DPA denied their request, pointing out that the foster home contract banned adoption and also that the Isners were too old. She is 48 and he 47.

The Isners, parents of two married daughters and a 13-year-old girl, had been awarded permanent custody of Rosemary last year by Tucker County Circuit Judge Ernest A. See but his ruling was set aside by the Supreme Court.

The outstanding young farmer program was sponsored by the state Jaycees and West Virginia Petroleum Assn. Kilmer, 34, owns an orchard. He was selected over 11 area champions.

Bigger Farms Are Predicted

More big farms and fewer small farms are the possibility for the future in Allegany County, some 80 livestock and dairy cattlemen were told Thursday at their annual meeting at the LaVale Fire Hall.

County Agent Joseph M. Steger explained that the talk by Dr. George Stevens, farm management specialist at the University of Maryland, was one of the highlights of the meeting. He believes there will be more and larger farms with gross annual income of over $25,000 but those with less than $25,000 will find it harder to survive and will be fewer than today.

Dr. Stevens envisions no food shortage in the next 25 to 50 years because of improved food technology. Higher costs for land, buildings and machinery will make it even harder for young farmers to embark on a career in agriculture.

Theodore R. Bissell, extension entomologist at the University of Maryland, advised farmers to use malathion and methoxychlor in spraying alfalfa for weevil and spritzing bugs. He cautioned that the Food and Drug Administration ruling makes it impossible to use heptachlor.

Dr. G. W. Green, Maryland Livestock Sanitation Service, Frederick, and Robert Schabinger, dairy specialist at the University of Maryland, were the other speakers. James Robison of the Glen Savage Dairy, Mt. Savage, presided.

W.Va. Reports Outbreak Of Rabies In Area

An outbreak of rabies among wild and domesticated animals in the Petersburg-Maysville, W. Va., areas has stirred concern by residents of those Grant County towns.

L. G. Stark, a Petersburg High School teacher who does much of the area's veterinarian work as a sideline, stated recently that a real threat exists and that he backed a proposal to county authorities that all dogs and cats be vaccinated and that a bounty be placed on foxes.

A resident of Maysville was recently bitten by an affected dog. The animal was sent first to Oakland for examination and then to College Park, at the request of the Grant County Health Department. There it was definitely determined the dog had rabies.

The victim is recuperating from the illness that followed.

Stark has started circulation of a petition to have domestic animals vaccinated and for a bounty on foxes. He said that so far about 300 signatures have been affixed.

The veterinarian added that the outbreak has also shown up in livestock. Just recently, he added, a cow was bitten and had to be destroyed because of the disease.

At least two positive diagnoses have been made, the one in the Maysville area and another at Bayard, and it is believed that a number of others exist. In the Gorman area, 23 positive diagnoses were made.

Victim Of Blast Is Improving

BALTIMORE (AP)—There was an improvement Friday in the condition of a Baltimore County woman hospitalized since a gas explosion heavily damaged her Parkville home.

Union Memorial Hospital said Mrs. Pearl G. Allen, 51, was in satisfactory condition and doing very well. She had been listed as fair. She was admitted Wednesday, the day of the blast, suffering from shock and second and third-degree burns.

Lt. E. L. Story of Baltimore County police said Mrs. Allen, formerly of Hardy County, W. Va., was questioned at her hospital bed twice Thursday.

Sanitation Section To Move Monday

The sanitation section of the Allegany County Health Department will move Monday across the hall on the second floor of the Union Street County Building.

The unit is now located in Room 13, Room 9, which was vacated recently by the Allegany-Garrett Tuberculosis Association, is being painted and will be ready for occupancy late this week.

Scout Neighborhood Meeting Set Tuesday

West Side Neighborhood Girl Scouts will meet on Tuesday at 10 a. m. in the Girl Scout Headquarters on Greene Street to discuss the pageant which will be held at 7:30 p. m. March 26 at the Allegany High School gymnasium.

Mrs. Richard Winer, leader of the West Side Neighborhood, said that Mrs. Byron Bonebrake and Mrs. William Holbrook, officials of Troop 20 sponsored by the Emmanuel Episcopal Church, will be social hostesses Tuesday.

Newspaper Spokesman Cites Cooperative Spirit

John D. Worthing of the Bel Air Aegis spoke on the topic "Maryland Press Assn.—Past, Present, Future."

He spoke at a luncheon of the 51st annual winter convention of the Maryland Press Assn. and the Chesapeake Assn. of the Associated Press.

As a spokesman for weekly newspapers, Worthing said, "I think I can say without fear of contradiction the weekly press is stronger today than it ever was before. It has developed beyond anything that we anticipated."

Worthing, a past president of the MPA, which includes some 40 weeklies in its membership, said that like the newspapers, the association has grown to greater service in the past half century.

He added that instead of simply serving as a social get-together, the meetings have become valued sounding boards for exchanging ideas, and carrying out those ideas.

Friday night, the joint convention of newspaper publishers and editors from Maryland, the District of Columbia and nearby areas of Pennsylvania and Delaware heard a banquet address by Clayton G. Horn, executive editor of the Brush-Moore Newspapers. That chain has seven papers in Ohio as well as the Salisbury, Md. Times and Hanover, Pa. Sun. The Baltimore Sunpapers were

Chlorinators Are Delivered To Water Plant

New chlorinating equipment ordered by the City of Cumberland is in, according to Water Commissioner G. Ray Light.

He said the twin units have been taken to the Lake Gordon filtration plant, where they will be installed under the direction of Franklin J. Blaney, assistant engineer-sanitation.

The new chlorinators, Mr. Blaney said, will be set up in remodeled quarters on the second floor of the plant.

He said the factory will be asked to send a representative here in a week or two to supervise the actual hookup of the equipment.

Planned in connection with the new installation is the dismantling of an overhead tram rail now used to haul the 3,600-pound tanks of chlorine gas to the chlorinators.

The tanks will instead be mounted on dollies and wheeled in and out of the chlorinating room.

The new units will replace obsolete equipment and will allow the bacteria-killing gas to be dispensed in precise amounts.

Crews are expected this week to complete work on a storm sewer along B&O tracks between South and Ontario streets.

B&O crews, Mr. Blaney said, have built a new manhole at the foot of a fill for the Industrial Highway, and city crews have connected a storm sewer to the manhole.

Railroad crews also have replaced part of a 30-inch pipe which was burned during construction work.

The work is expected to relieve a serious storm water drainage problem in the area, which has resulted in wet basements during heavy rains.

Much of the money will be spent on public works projects to give temporary $1-an-hour jobs to the most needy of the jobless.

In dollar terms, the relief program voted by the Democratic Legislature amounted to little more than one-third of what Republican Gov. Underwood urged as a minimum undertaking. Democrats were fond of talking of the "crash program" they were shaping up. Whether the result is loud enough to be called a crash may be a campaign issue.

State Republican Chairman Daniel L. Louchery of Clarksburg, borrowing a phrase from an ex-president in the other party, is calling it a "do-nothing" legislature. The attempt to cope with West Virginia's economic problems, said Louchery, was "a miserable failure by any standard of measurement."

During the various court proceedings, it was brought out that Rosemary was the illegitimate daughter of a school teacher.

Underwood concluded by asking the Isners to cooperate with DPA workers to make Rosemary's transition to a new home "as painless as possible."

"Much depends on their attitude," he said. "The child can be permanently helped or further injured by their choice."

The Isners, notified Friday by telegram of Underwood's decision, attempted to adopt Rosemary but the DPA denied their request, pointing out that the foster home contract banned adoption and also that the Isners were too old. She is 48 and he 47.

The Isners, parents of two married daughters and a 13-year-old girl, had been awarded permanent custody of Rosemary last year by Tucker County Circuit Judge Ernest A. See but his ruling was set aside by the Supreme Court.

Top Farmer Is Named

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—William H. Kilmer of Martinsburg, selected West Virginia's outstanding young farmer of 1959, will go to Bakersfield, Calif., April 4-6 to vie for national honors.

The outstanding young farmer program was sponsored by the state Jaycees and West Virginia Petroleum Assn. Kilmer, 34, owns an orchard. He was selected over 11 area champions.

Second place went to Richard V. Snuffer, 30, of Surveyor in Raleigh County. Philip Harmonson, 25, of Berkeley Springs was third.

Bigger Farms Are Predicted

More big farms and fewer small farms are the possibility for the future in Allegany County, some 80 livestock and dairy cattlemen were told Thursday at their annual meeting at the La-Vale Fire Hall.

County Agent Joseph M. Steger explained that the talk by Dr. George Stevens, farm management specialist at the University of Maryland, was one of the highlights of the meeting. He believes there will be more and larger farms with gross annual income of over $25,000 but those with less than $25,000 will find it harder to survive and will be fewer than today.

Dr. Stevens envisions no food shortage in the next 25 to 50 years because of improved food technology. Higher costs for land, buildings and machinery will make it even harder for young farmers to embark on a career in agriculture.

Theodore R. Bissell, extension entomologist at the University of Maryland, advised farmers to use malathion and methoxychlor in spraying alfalfa for weevil and spritzing bugs. He cautioned that the Food and Drug Administration ruling makes it impossible to use heptachlor.

Dr. G. W. Green, Maryland Livestock Sanitation Service, Frederick, and Robert Schabinger, dairy specialist at the University of Maryland, were the other speakers. James Robison of the Glen Savage Dairy, Mt. Savage, presided.

W.Va. Reports Outbreak Of Rabies In Area

An outbreak of rabies among wild and domesticated animals in the Petersburg-Maysville, W. Va., areas has stirred concern by residents of those Grant County towns.

L. G. Stark, a Petersburg High School teacher who does much of the area's veterinarian work as a sideline, stated recently that a real threat exists and that he backed a proposal to county authorities that all dogs and cats be vaccinated and that a bounty be placed on foxes.

A resident of Maysville was recently bitten by an affected dog. The animal was sent first to Oakland for examination and then to College Park, at the request of the Grant County Health Department. There it was definitely determined the dog had rabies.

The victim is recuperating from the illness that followed.

Stark has started circulation of a petition to have domestic animals vaccinated and for a bounty on foxes. He said that so far about 300 signatures have been affixed.

The veterinarian added that the outbreak has also shown up in livestock. Just recently, he added, a cow was bitten and had to be destroyed because of the disease.

At least two positive diagnoses have been made, the one in the Maysville area and another at Bayard, and it is believed that a number of others exist. In the Gorman area, 23 positive diagnoses were made.

Victim Of Blast Is Improving

BALTIMORE (AP)—There was an improvement Friday in the condition of a Baltimore County woman hospitalized since a gas explosion heavily damaged her Parkville home.

Union Memorial Hospital said Mrs. Pearl G. Allen, 51, was in satisfactory condition and doing very well. She had been listed as fair. She was admitted Wednesday, the day of the blast, suffering from shock and second and third-degree burns.

L. E. L. Story of Baltimore County police said Mrs. Allen formerly of Hardy County, W. Va., was questioned at her hospital bed twice Thursday.

Sanitation Section To Move Monday

Scout Neighborhood Meeting Set Tuesday

West Side Neighborhood Girl Scouts will meet on Tuesday at 10 a. m. in the Girl Scout Headquarters on Greene Street to discuss the pageant which will be held at 7:30 p. m. March 26 at the Allegany High School gymnasium.

Mrs. Richard Winer, leader of the West Side Neighborhood, said that Mrs. Byron Bonebrake and Mrs. William Holbrook, officials of Troop 20 sponsored by the Emmanuel Episcopal Church, will be social hostesses Tuesday.

Three out of four American homes now have electric toasters.

Combs have been used by all people in every age for dressing the hair.

Newspaper Spokesman Cites Cooperative Spirit

John D. Worthing of the Bel Air Aegis spoke on the topic "Maryland Press Assn.—Past, Present, Future."

He spoke at a luncheon of the 51st annual winter convention of the Maryland Press Assn. and the Chesapeake Assn. of the Associated Press.

As a spokesman for weekly newspapers, Worthing said, "I think I can say without fear of contradiction the weekly press is stronger today than it ever was before. It has developed beyond anything that we anticipated."

Worthing, a past president of the MPA, which includes some 40 weeklies in its membership, said that like the newspapers, the association has grown to greater service in the past half century.

He added that instead of simply serving as a social get-together, the meetings have become valued sounding boards for exchanging ideas, and carrying out those ideas.

Friday night, the joint convention of newspaper publishers and editors from Maryland, the District of Columbia and nearby areas of Pennsylvania and Delaware heard a banquet address by Clayton G. Horn, executive editor of the Brush-Moore Newspapers.

That chain has seven papers in Ohio as well as the Salisbury, Md. Times and Hanover, Pa. Sun.

Chlorinators Are Delivered To Water Plant

New chlorinating equipment ordered by the City of Cumberland is in, according to Water Commissioner G. Ray Light.

He said the twin units have been taken to the Lake Gordon filtration plant, where they will be installed under the direction of Franklin J. Blaney, assistant engineer-sanitation.

The new chlorinators, Mr. Blaney said, will be set up in remodeled quarters on the second floor of the plant.

He said the factory will be asked to send a representative here in a week or two to supervise the actual hookup of the equipment.

Planned in connection with the new installation is the dismantling of an overhead tram rail now used to haul the 3,600-pound tanks of chlorine gas to the chlorinators.

The tanks will instead be mounted on dollies and wheeled in and out of the chlorinating room.

The new units will replace obsolete equipment and will allow the bacteria-killing gas to be dispensed in precise amounts.

Crews are expected this week to complete work on a storm sewer along B&O tracks between South and Ontario streets.

B&O crews, Mr. Blaney said, have built a new manhole at the foot of a fill for the Industrial Highway, and city crews have connected a storm sewer to the manhole.

Railroad crews also have replaced part of a 30-inch pipe which was burned during construction work.

The work is expected to relieve a serious storm water drainage problem in the area, which has resulted in wet basements during heavy rains.

Pakistan's Tiered
Local Democracy

Pakistan takes another step toward representative government on Sunday, when 80,000 elected members of the nation's "basic democracy councils" vote to express their confidence in or opposition to President Mohammed Ayub Khan. A majority vote favorable to Ayub would mean the appointment of a commission to draw up a constitution to replace rule by martial law. Ayub would become the first President under the new constitution.

In legislation decreed by Ayub last October 26 a new system of pyramidal or tiered "local democracy" was established. The electorate chooses local councils which in turn select higher governing bodies.

Two-thirds of the members of the local councils are elected, one-third appointed by local officials. County councils are composed one-half of local council chairmen and one-half of regional officials. District councils are one-half appointed and one-half composed of regional officials. Divisional councils are appointed, with powers similar to those of district councils. Two provincial development advisory councils, one-half appointed and one-half composed of provincial officials, will advise the government on local development needs in East and West Pakistan.

President Ayub on December 19 explained that nominated (appointive) members would gradually be eliminated from village councils once these bodies began to function properly. He asserted that it was important to establish democratic institutions as rapidly as possible. But he defended his indirect form of having national leaders selected on the ground of Pakistan's illiteracy and lack of communications media. "We have no television and little radio," he reasoned, "so how can you vote for someone you don't know and may see only once during an election campaign?"

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky
A Universal Influence

Gerald Beadle, director of BBC Television Broadcasting, the official radio and television organization of Great Britain, made an important point in a recent address before a private group in New York. He said: "Next to the home and school I believe television to have a more profound influence on the human race than any other medium of communication. It deserves to be taken very seriously indeed. Our Western civilization is not the only one on this planet. Civilizations grow and prosper by making themselves attractive spiritually as well as materially. I use the word spiritual to include everything appealing to the intellect, the conscience, the sense of beauty and the humour of man. If television lives up to this broad and high ideal it will prosper and posterity will bless it. If it does not, posterity will curse the BBC for ever having started it."

Television brings into the home the products of civilization, culture, refinement, education, vulgarity, murder, brutal ugliness, lies, deceit—anything that is put on it. The importance is that television brings whatever it does into the home and therefore is either a moral or an immoral force. It either builds our civilization or it tears it down. The smallest children gather about it and learn from it; oldsters and shut-ins find solace and relief from boredom in its programs.

Hitler built a career on the radio; Roosevelt reached the hearts of millions by a radio voice which fitted the instrument perfectly. He was four times elected to the Presidency—the only man in that office to reach the whole people of this country simultaneously. Radio and television are a political power beyond the conception of their founders. These instruments can be used as effectively for evil as for good. These are political and social instruments.

It is impossible to believe that children are not influenced by the constant knifings and killings on television. It is experience that children turn their faces from their books, from their home-work, to watch the exciting moment when the hero kills the villain, six times a week, always at the same moment until it becomes a narcotic. Similarly the wise-cracking comedian's vulgarities can become a fashion. Television programming in this country suffers not from commercialism but from the lack of imagination and responsibility. It drifts into patterns which seem successful. When the Quiz Shows were successful, they multiplied until they became a bore. They were a bore before they were exposed as crooked. Now we are going through two phases, one of which is already becoming tiresome, the grown-up Western, and the other being an outrageous and vicious abuse of a public utility, by constant exposure of the violent murder story, each including the most brutal type of fighting with not a modicum of sportsmanship. The effect on children and on adults with child-like minds is particularly evil and must have a direct relationship to the increase in crime in this country.

The question does arise as to what the television can provide over the many hours of the day that its management use these instruments. That is management's problem and lazy men can find easy solutions to difficult problems — solutions which have gotten their industry into the troubles they now face. Programming is frightfully difficult.

Television can only be supported by advertising or by payment by the viewer. Both methods ought to be used. If the viewer has pay television in his home, he can select his program carefully, omit disturbing advertising and distressing theme music, and pay for only what pleases him.

When this instrument is used exclusively to push commercials, the tendency is to grab at almost anything that will attract attention to the commercial, even a man stabbing another man or throwing a knife at a woman. Commercials blossom on some shows like the weeds they are and the Federal Trade Commission has, at long last, discovered that it has a duty to perform. Government commissions only too often do their jobs after it is too late to mean much, but taking the less tar,hoax out of cigarette advertising is worth something even if it does not eliminate those programs which have excessive commercials.

The answer may have to be government moral censorship, which could be very bad, or pay television which many viewers dislike. Whichever it is, television will be made decent.

'In This Act The Dummy Does The Talking'

Ike Puts Agricultural 'Gap' Up To Congress

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower has put up to Congress the task of closing perhaps the biggest "gap" of them all—the agricultural gap. He says: "The government sustains a net cost of more than $1,000 a minute — $1,500,000 every day — the year around, to stabilize wheat prices and income."

The President reveals that federal funds tied up in wheat approximate $3.5 billion, and makes this further point:

"Although this means that well over 30 per cent of the total funds invested in inventories and loans of the Commodity Credit Corporation goes for wheat, this crop provides only six per cent of the cash receipts from sales of farm products."

It wouldn't be so disturbing if the financial support given the farm program was getting somewhere. But it isn't. Production, instead of being curtailed, is being stimulated. Here's how Mr. Eisenhower, in his latest message to Congress, explains what's happening:

"Day by day this program further distorts wheat markets and supplies. Its only future is ever higher cost. Inexorably it generates ever larger surpluses which must be expensively stored. Ultimately, if our government does not act quickly and constructively, the danger is very real that this entire program will collapse under the pressure of public indignation, and thousands of our farming people will be hurt."

What can be done about it? This is a political year. The so-called "farm vote" is supposed to be drawing away from the Republicans largely because the Administration has refused to go in for higher and higher subsidies. So the President has put the dilemma squarely before Congress. He has, in effect, challenged the politicians in both parties. He says:

"Whatever the legislative approach, whether toward greater freedom or more regimentation, it must be sensible and economically sound and not a political ploy. And it must be enacted promptly. I will approve any constructive solution that the Congress wishes to develop. . . ."

The President then discusses several basic principles and various alternative plays, and promises to approve any one of them or "a combination of constructive proposals." He doesn't abandon the idea of farm subsidies and, indeed, urges expansion of the present conservation reserve program up to 60 million acres. The Secretary of Agriculture would be authorized to make payments in kind for reduction of acreage devoted to crops in surplus and for retirement of such acreage from cultivation. The main condition imposed is that measures must be provided to keep total production below total consumption while this program is in operation. He says that, lacking such "safeguards," a payment-in-kind procedure would overload the free market and thereby depress prices."

Mr. Eisenhower has not heretofore offered such a flexibility of approach. He declares that, if Congress wishes to propose a plan of its own as an alternative, he will approve it "so long as the plan is constructive." He

Ike Plans To Veto Water Pollution Bill, Though Many Cities Need It

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — A dynamite-laden report on polluted drinking water which affects some of the major cities of the United States is causing concern in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. It probably will be suppressed, however, until after the President can safely veto a $90,000,000 appropriation to clean up water pollution.

Behind this paradox on pollution are two highly interesting ironies:

Irony No. 1—Experts of the Health, Education, and Welfare Department have warned Congressmen that more money is urgently needed to fight water contamination. Yet these very same experts of the same Health, Education, and Welfare Department have been ordered by Ike to write his veto message explaining why the money they recommend is not needed.

Irony No. 2—The presence of worms in drinking water was discovered by the Robert A. Taft Sanitary Engineering Center in Cincinnati, named after the late "Mr. Republican" who was more budget-minded than Eisenhower. Despite economy, however, Taft considered the nation's health more important than budget-balancing, and helped pioneer the pollution control program which is now named for him.

Of 15 cities whose water was analyzed, the Taft Center found that 13 cities are pumping microscopic, unseen worms through the faucets. This high percentage suggests that many other cities probably have worms in their water.

More than 3,000 communities still discharge raw waste into the nation's waterways, turning some streams into open sewers. The Potomac, which flows past the nation's capital, is one of the worst. The sewage treatment plants in another 2,000 communities don't adequately protect the drinking water.

Behind Ike's Back

Despite this, President Eisenhower, looking for budget savings, slashed next year's water pollution budget from $45,000,000 to a mere $25,000,000. This was why his own experts, in desperation, sneaked up to Capitol Hill to warn Democratic Congressmen of the health hazard.

This was a very dangerous thing for them to do. For a bureaucrat to lobby with Congress behind the President's back is to risk getting fired. However, the water experts were so concerned that they did it anyway.

The experts had, however, the general backing of their immediate boss, Arthur Flemming, Ike's Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, warned last month that water pollution could "jeopardize the further growth and development of many areas of the country and even the health of millions of people."

Therefore when Congressmen Blatnik of Minnesota and Dingell of Michigan got the startling facts on pollution, they pushed a $90,000,000 anti-pollution appropriation through Congress.

Even before the bill reached his desk, however, Ike ordered the Health, Education, and Welfare Department to prepare a veto message. This may be denied, but it is a fact.

Meanwhile, the President's own public works adviser, Gen. J. S. Bragdon, bluntly reported: "We need almost 8,000 municipal plants alone, and in all, some 17,000 facilities, public and private, to insure that all of the potential sources of pollution are adequately controlled."

Note—All the leading presidential contenders except Vice President Nixon have endorsed the pollution control program. Administrators of the program, meeting in Chicago on January 27, tried to get an endorsement from Nixon who happened to be in Chicago the same day. He refused to take a stand.

Radioactive Drinking Water
Meanwhile, the Public Health Service is collecting water-pollution reports that read like horror stories. Probably the worst case was the dumping of dangerous radioactive waste into Colorado's Animas River by the Vanadium Corporation of America. Public Health investigators discovered that 30,000 people in southern Colorado and New Mexico were drinking radioactive water.

In Jacinto City, Texas, sewage in the water produced such a powerful odor in the form of hydrogen sulfide that it literally turned silverware black, tarnished the paint on houses, and caused widespread illness.

Government doctors have traced paralytic polio in Camden, N. J., typhoid fever in Milwaukee, dysentery in Cincinnati, and yellow jaundice in Utah, all to polluted water. The Columbia River is so contaminated in some areas that mere motorboat spray can cause disease. In Washington, D. C., residents have been warned against eating fish caught in the Potomac, and swimming in the Potomac is now almost nonexistent.

Note—Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas last week pointed out that the United States had permitted little Israel to get ahead of us in pioneering new sources of water.

Mutual Funds

By Leslie Gould

One of the questions raised about mutual funds, which have had such a sensational growth, is what happens in time of market adversity.

Do investors in mutual funds sell and thus force liquidation of portfolio securities to meet their "cash in" demands? or, Do they hold their investments? or, Do they add to them?

The field being so new, few funds have a record covering all kinds of market conditions — booms, busts, depressions and war.

Prewar total assets of all mutual funds were $448 millions. Today they are around $16 billion. There are more than 220 mutual fund or open end investment trusts.

There is one fund — the first in the field and the largest — Massachusetts Investors Trust — that has experienced everything. MIT started in business on March 21, 1924 and by the end of the year had 200 shareholders holding 96,888 shares and total assets of just slightly above $400,000.

Today MIT has 211,495 shareholders, holding 111,800,035 shares at the end of last year. Total assets of the trust at the end of 1959 were more than $1-1/2 billions — $1,557,737,888 to be exact.

In that 35-year period, the trust showed a decline in the number of shares held by investors.

The two years were 1940 and 1941, when the war was on in Europe and our threatened involvement became a fact on Dec. 7, 1941. In the dark days of the depression after the 1929 panic, the number of shareholders increased from 5,096 and 1929 to 9,679 in 1930 to 13,641 in 1931, to 16,225 in 1932, to 18,025 in 1933, to 20,687 in 1934 to 31,352 in 1935, to 40,360 in 1936, to 47,756 in 1937, to 50,225 in 1938, to 50,400 in 1939.

In 1940 the shareholders dipped to 49,699 and in 1941 to 48,875, but in 1942 they rose to 52,354. At the end of the war there were 56,202 shareholders — 1945 — and 82,523 in 1950, 113,678 in 1953 and last year exceeding 200,000.

A breakdown of the sales of new stock and the repurchase of shares by quarters — that is three months period — shows that in a period such as 1937, when the market had a big decline, sales of new shares exceeded "cash-ins."

In the March quarter of that year 50,796 shares were "cash-ed in" but 243,591 new shares were sold. In the June quarter, 46,402 shares were cashed in, while 170,563 were sold. In the September quarter 69,517 shares were turned in against sales of 233,130, and in the December quarter 122,538 shares were cashed in to 444,816 new shares sold.

In 1940 on the fall of France and the next year with Pearl Harbor, 83,786 shares were turned in against 55,309 new shares sold. In the June quarter 126,209 turns vs. 122,818 new sales; September quarter, 55,402 cash-ins vs. 78,586 new sales; December quarter, 91,206 cash-ins vs. 141,369.

The 1941 record was — March quarter, 82,436 cash-ins vs. 100,056 new sales; June quarter, 72,483 cash-ins vs. 109,115 new sales; September quarter 69,029 cash-ins vs. 110,818 new sales, December quarter, 251,258 cash-ins vs. 178,952 new sales.

The trust's fine management performance have been the factors in this investor confidence. The trust's shares at the end of 1924 had a value of $4.04 and assuming capital gains dividends were reinvested the valuation at the end of 1959 was $17.75.

Many Fingernail Conditions Are Hereditary

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

We used to think the fingernails were a good index of the general condition of the body; that they underwent various changes as a result of vitamin deficiencies, poor nutrition, anemia, allergies, glandular disorders, and systemic diseases. But we were wrong.

Some people are born with nails that are softer and thinner than usual. They are fragile and break easily. Malnutrition, poor circulation, or chronic ill health was blamed until we realized that the condition is hereditary.

According to a report in Spectrum, thin nails often can be thickened by mechanical stimulation with a buffer. This is done for several months and new layers form on the surface of the nails in much the same way as a callus forms on the hands or other areas of pressure.

Grooves (beau's lines) may develop in nails that are subjected to the stress of long illnesses, emotional shock, or accidents. These transverse ridges form under the cuticle and six months pass before the groove in the nail grows out.

The majority of disorders of the nail bed are secondary to infections of the areas surrounding the nail. These include ringworm, psoriasis, poor circulation to the finger tips, nerve injuries, and chemical or physical trauma. The most complicated of all nail problems occurs when two or more diseases coexist. A combination of psoriasis and ringworm is a good example.

Fungal (ringworm) infections are responsible for 20 per cent of all nail diseases. They usually start along the edges of the nails, which become whitish or yellowish in color. The bed is involved next, and in time the nail plate becomes thickened and often separates from the bed.

In the later stages the nail looks worm-eaten and is surrounded by a brownish blackish frame. Diagnosis is made by studying nail scraping under the microscope for the causative fungus. The new ringworm pills are said to be effective.

Dr. Van Dellen will send a leaflet on nail disorders if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

Pakistan's Tiered 'Local Democracy'

Pakistan takes another step toward representative government on Sunday, when 80,000 elected members of the nation's "basic democracy councils" vote to express their confidence in or opposition to President Mohammed Ayub Khan. A majority vote favorable to Ayub would mean the appointment of a commission to draw up a constitution to replace rule by martial law. Ayub would become the first President under the new constitution.

In legislation decreed by Ayub last October 26 a new system of pyramidal or tiered "local democracy" was established. The electorate chooses local councils which in turn select higher governing bodies.

Two-thirds of the members of the local councils are elected, one-third appointed by local officials. County councils are composed one-half of local council chairmen and one-half of regional officials. District councils are one-half appointed and one-half composed of regional officials. Divisional councils are appointed, with powers similar to those of district councils. Two provincial development advisory councils, one-half appointed and one-half composed of provincial officials, will advise the government on local development needs in East and West Pakistan.

President Ayub on December 19 explained that nominated (appointive) members would gradually be eliminated from village councils once these bodies began to function properly. He asserted that it was important to establish democratic institutions as rapidly as possible. But he defended his indirect form of having national leaders selected on the ground of Pakistan's illiteracy and lack of communications media. "We have no television and little radio," he reasoned, "so how can you vote for someone you don't know and may see only once during an election campaign?"

These Days

A Universal Influence

Gerald Beadie, director of BBC Television Broadcasting, the official radio and television organization of Great Britain, made an important point in a recent address before a private group in New York. He said: "Next to the home and school I believe television to have a more profound influence on the human race than any other medium of communication. It deserves to be taken very seriously indeed. Our Western civilization is not the only one on this planet. Civilizations grow and prosper by making themselves attractive spiritually as well as materially. I use the word spiritual to include everything appealing to the intellect, the conscience, the sense of beauty and the humour of man. If television lives up to this broad and high ideal it will prosper and posterity will bless it. If it does not, posterity will curse the BBC for ever having started it."

Television brings into the home the products of civilization, culture, refinement, education, vulgarity, murder, brutal ugliness, lies, deceit—anything that is put on it. The importance is that television brings whatever it does into the home and therefore is either a moral or an immoral force. It either builds our civilization or it tears it down. The smallest children gather about it and learn from it; oldsters and shut-ins find solace and relief from boredom in its programs.

Hitler built a career on the radio; Roosevelt reached the hearts of millions by a radio voice which fitted the instrument perfectly. He was four times elected to the Presidency—the only man in that office to reach the whole people of this country simultaneously. Radio and television are a political power beyond the conception of their founders. These instruments can be used as effectively for evil as for good. These are political and social instruments.

It is impossible to believe that children are not influenced by the constant knifings and killings on television. It is experience that children turn their faces from their books, from their home-work, to watch the exciting moment when the hero kills the villain, six times a week, always at the same moment until it becomes a narcotic. Similarly the wise-cracking comedian's vulgarities can become a fashion.

Television programming in this country suffers not from commercialism but from the lack of imagination and responsibility. It drifts into patterns which seem successful. When the Quiz Shows were successful, they multiplied until they became a bore. They were a bore before they were exposed as crooked. Now we are going through two phases, one of which is already becoming tiresome, the grown-up Western, and the other being an outrageous and vicious abuse of a public utility, by constant exposure of the violent murder story, each including the most brutal type of fighting with not a modicum of sportsmanship. The effect on children and on adults with child-like minds is particularly evil and must have a direct relationship to the increase in crime in this country.

The question does arise as to what the television can provide over the many hours of the day that its management use these instruments. That is management's problem and lazy men can find easy solutions to difficult problems—solutions which have gotten their industry into the troubles they now face. Programming is frightfully difficult.

Television can only be supported by advertising or by payment by the viewer. Both methods ought to be used. If the viewer has pay television in his home, he can select his program carefully, omit disturbing advertising and distressing theme music, and pay for only what pleases him.

When this instrument is used exclusively to push commercials, the tendency is to grab at almost anything that will attract attention to the commercial, even a man stabbing another man or throwing a knife at a woman. Commercials blossom on some shows like the weeds they are and the Federal Trade Commission has, at long last, discovered that it has a duty to perform. Government commissions only too often do their jobs after it is too late to mean much, but taking the less tar hoax out of cigarette advertising is worth something even if it does not eliminate those programs which have excessive commercials.

The answer may have to be government moral censorship, which could be very bad, or pay television which many viewers dislike. Whichever it is, television will be made decent.

'In This Act The Dummy Does The Talking'

Ike Puts Agricultural 'Gap' Up To Congress

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower has put up to Congress the task of closing perhaps the biggest "gap" of them all—the agricultural gap. He says:

"The government sustains a net cost of more than $1,000 a minute — $1,500,000 every day — the year around, to stabilize wheat prices and income."

The President reveals that federal funds tied up in wheat approximate $3.5 billion, and makes this further point:

"Although this means that we'll over 30 per cent of the total funds invested in inventories and loans of the Commodity Credit Corporation goes for wheat, this crop provides only six per cent of the cash receipts from sales of farm products."

It wouldn't be so disturbing if the financial support given the farm program was getting somewhere. But it isn't. Production, instead of being curtailed, is being stimulated. Here's how Mr. Eisenhower, in his latest message to Congress, explains what's happening:

"Day by day this program further distorts wheat markets and supplies. Its only future is ever higher cost. Inexorably it generates ever larger surpluses which must be expensively stored. Ultimately, if our government does not act quickly and constructively, the danger is very real that this entire program will collapse under the pressure of public indignation, and thousands of our farming people will be hurt."

What can be done about it? This is a political year. The so-called "farm vote" is supposed to be drawing away from the Republicans largely because the Administration has refused to go in for higher and higher subsidies.

So the President has put the dilemma squarely before Congress. He has, in effect, challenged the politicians in both parties. He says:

"Whatever the legislative approach, whether toward greater freedom or more regimentation, it must be sensible and economically sound and not a political poultrie. And it must be enacted promptly. I will approve any constructive solution that the Congress wishes to develop. . . ."

The President then discusses several basic principles and various alternative plays, and promises to approve any one of them or "a combination of constructive proposals." He doesn't abandon the idea of farm subsidies and, indeed, urges expansion of the present conservation reserve program up to 60 million acres. The Secretary of Agriculture would be authorized to make payments in kind for reduction of acreage devoted to crops in surplus and for retirement of such acreage from cultivation. The main condition imposed is that measures must be provided to keep total production below total consumption while this program is in operation. He says that, lacking such "safeguards," a payment-in-kind procedure would overload the free market and thereby depress prices."

Mr. Eisenhower has not heretofore offered such a flexibility of approach. He declares that, if Congress wishes to propose a plan of its own as an alternative, he will approve it "so long as the plan is constructive." He

Clark and Scott had just gotten through discussing a new threat to the clothing industry, the persistent dumping of low-priced Japanese suits on the American market.

Clark innocently turned to Scott, admired the suit he was wearing, and asked him where he got it.

Scott icily replied that he had bought it in Hong Kong, and then hastened to add that he also bought American clothes. He then asked Clark where he had purchased the suit he was wearing.

"Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.," Clark replied, grinning.

Still not willing to quit the exchange, Scott remarked, "Well, here is your chance for a free commercial and I hope Wanamaker's sends you another suit, if you are willing to stand the payola. . . ."

Clark snapped "no payoff" and that ended the exchange.

Ike Plans To Veto Water Pollution Bill, Though Many Cities Need It

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — A dynamite-laden report on polluted drinking water which affects some of the major cities of the United States is causing concern in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. It probably will be suppressed, however, until after the President can safely veto a $90,000,000 appropriation to clean up water pollution.

Behind this paradox on pollution are two highly interesting ironies:

Irony No. 1—Experts of the Health, Education, and Welfare Department have warned Congressmen that more money is urgently needed to fight water contamination. Yet these very same experts of the same Health, Education, and Welfare Department have been ordered by Ike to write his veto message explaining why the money they recommend is not needed.

Irony No. 2—The presence of worms in drinking water was discovered by the Robert A. Taft Sanitary Engineering Center in Cincinnati, named after the late "Mr. Republican" who was more budget-minded than Eisenhower. Despite economy, however, Taft considered the nation's health more important than budget-balancing, and helped pioneer the pollution control program which is now named for him.

Of 15 cities whose water was analyzed, the Taft Center found that 13 cities are pumping microscopic, unseen worms through the faucets. This high percentage suggests that many other cities insists that "the important thing for farmers, and for all other Americans, is for us to act sensibly and to act swiftly."

This means that Congress will be on the spot. It cannot dodge the issue. It will have to offer a legislative plan to remedy the present situation. This will tempt some influential members of Congress to write the kind of bill that will bring a Presidential veto. But it is unlikely that such a measure would command a two-thirds vote to override a veto. For Congress is very much divided on the farm question.

The Republicans will make good use of the President's latest message to Congress. They will point out that he has placed directly upon Congress the major responsibility for originating farm legislation. If no suitable legislation is offered, the Democrats — since they are in control of both Houses of Congress — will have to accept the blame. At least, that's the theory. Conversely, if the Democrats come up with a measure that the President can sign, it helps the Republicans to take the issue to a large extent out of the 1960 Presidential campaign.

Apart from politics, the next Administration, irrespective of whether it is Democratic or Republican, will have to come to grips with the same agricultural problem. Hence a start might as well be made now as a year hence to close the "gap" between the low net income of many farmers and the excessive production of certain farm products which the President says pointedly, has been "largely due to economic distortions induced by years of federal interference."

Even more disturbing Public Health investigators have discovered radioactive waste, cancer-causing chemicals, raw sewage, and other filth in drinking water. Such diseases as typhoid fever, paralytic polio, yellow jaundice, and dysentery have been traced directly to polluted water.

More than 3,000 communities still discharge raw waste into the nation's waterways, turning some streams into open sewers. The Potomac, which flows past the nation's capital, is one of the worst. The sewage treatment plants in another 2,800 communities don't adequately protect the drinking water.

Behind Ike's Back
Despite this, President Eisenhower, looking for budget savings, slashed next year's water pollution budget from $45,000,000 to a mere $25,000,000. This was why his own experts, in desperation, sneaked up to Capitol Hill to warn Democratic Congressmen of the health hazard.

This was a very dangerous thing for them to do. For a bureaucrat to lobby with Congress behind the President's back is to risk getting fired. However, the water experts were so concerned that they did it anyway.

The experts had, however, the general backing of their immediate boss, Arthur Flemming, Ike's Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, warned last month that water pollution could "jeopardize the further growth and development of many areas of the country and even the health of millions of people."

Therefore when Congressmen Blatnik of Minnesota and Dingell of Michigan got the startling facts on pollution, they pushed a $90,000,000 anti-pollution appropriation through Congress.

Even before the bill reached his desk, however, Ike ordered the Health, Education, and Welfare Department to prepare a veto message. This may be denied, but it is a fact.

Meanwhile, the President's own public works adviser, Gen. J. S. Bragdon, bluntly reported: "We need almost 8,000 municipal plants alone, and in all, some 17,000 facilities, public and private, to insure that all of the potential sources of pollution are adequately controlled."

Note—All the leading presidential contenders except Vice President Nixon have endorsed the pollution control program. Administrators of the program, meeting in Chicago on January 27, tried to get an endorsement from Nixon who happened to be in Chicago the same day. He refused to take a stand.

Radioactive Drinking Water
Meanwhile, the Public Health Service is collecting water-pollution reports that read like horror stories. Probably the worst case was the dumping of dangerous radioactive waste into Colorado's Animas River by the Vanadium Corporation of America. Public Health investigators discovered that 30,000 people in southern Colorado and New Mexico were drinking radioactive water.

In Jacinto City, Texas, sewage in the water produced such a powerful odor in the form of hydrogen sulfide that it literally turned silverware black, tarnished the paint on houses, and caused widespread illness.

Government doctors have traced paralytic polio in Camden, N. J., typhoid fever in Milwaukee, dysentery in Cincinnati, and yellow jaundice in Utah, all to polluted water. The Columbia River is so contaminated in some areas that mere motorboat spray can cause disease. In Washington, D. C., residents have been warned against eating fish caught in the Potomac, and swimming in the Potomac is now almost nonexistent.

Note—Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas last week pointed out that the United States had permitted little Israel to get ahead of us in pioneering new sources of water.

Capital Chitchat
Montana's hard-working Congressman Lee Metcalf, selected by 100 northern Democrats as their leader, has picked up a new nickname. His colleagues now call him "Speaker Jr." . . . Frances Knight, the charming, efficient lady who runs the nation's passport section, has started her own private "slush fund." ## Mutual Funds

By Leslie Gould

One of the questions raised about mutual funds, which have had such a sensational growth, is what happens in time of market adversity.

Do investors in mutual funds sell and thus force liquidation of portfolio securities to meet their "cash in" demands? or

Do they hold their investments? or

Do they add to them?

The field being so new, few funds have a record covering all kinds of market conditions — booms, busts, depressions and war.

Prewar total assets of all mutual funds were $448 millions. Today they are around $16 billion. There are more than 220 mutual fund or open end investment trusts.

There is one fund — the first in the field and the largest — Massachusetts Investors Trust — that has experienced everything. MIT started in business on March 21, 1924 and by the end of the year had 200 shareholders holding 96,888 shares and total assets of just slightly above $400,000.

Today MIT has 211,495 shareholders, holding 111,000,035 shares at the end of last year. Total assets of the trust at the end of 1959 were more than $1½ billions — $1,557,737,888 to be exact.

In that 35-year period, the trust showed a decline in the number of shares held by investors.

The two years were 1940 and 1941, when the war was on in Europe and our threatened involvement became a fact on Dec. 7, 1941. In the dark days of the depression after the 1929 panic, the number of shareholders increased from 5,096 and 1929 to 9,679 in 1930 to 13,641 in 1931, to 16,225 in 1932, to 18,025 in 1933, to 20,687 in 1934 to 31,352 in 1935.

The 1941 record was — March quarter, 82,436 cash-ins vs. 100,058 new sales; June quarter, 72,483 cash-ins vs. 109,115 new sales; September quarter 69,029 cash-ins vs. 110,818 new sales, December quarter, 251,258 cash-ins vs. 178,952 new sales.

The trust's fine management performance have been the factors in this investor confidence. The trust's shares at the end of 1924 had a value of $4.04 and assuming capital gains dividends were reinvested the valuation at the end of 1959 was $17.75.

Valley High School's Black Knights, refusing to be counted out of the picture in the race for the WMI League championship, they are defending, scored a thrilling 61-57 overtime victory over the pace-setting Allegany Campers last night before a packed house at Lonaconing.

The Campers (7-1) still lead the pack in the six-team circuit, but their margin was cut to one game over runnersup Valley and Bruce, who boast 6-2 marks. The latter quint beat Mt. Savage last night by a 74-66 score, and Beall held off a fourth period uprising by Fort Hill to nip the Sentinels, 68-66.

Jimmy Getty sparked a fourth quarter drive that brought the Knights back from an eight-point deficit with six minutes to go. Getty pumped in seven field goals in the torrid final frame, but wasn't around long in the overtime session, committing his fifth personal foul with only 13 seconds gone in the three-minute period.

Score 11 Straight

After a left-hand push shot by Allegany's Jerry Pentoney gave the Campers a 41-33 edge with two minutes gone in the fourth quarter, Valley called time out, then came back to reel off 11 straight points in about two minutes. Three field goals and a free throw by Getty, a fielder by Bill Garlitz, and a pair of foul conversions by Danny Young pushed the Knights in front, 44-41.

A field goal and free throw by Gary Mulligan tied it up at 44-41, and the two clubs settled down to trading point for point, with neither team leading by more than two of the regulation game, which ended in a 52-52 deadlock. With only five seconds left in the scoring column, collecting 27 points on 10 field goals and a 7-12 foul line effort. Ex-try was fouled by Getty, but his Allegany High star Gary Shook's Larry McKenzie plucked off the rebound.

The overtime heat was just as hectic as the latter moments of the fourth quarter had been. Pope picked up three points on one play with only 13 seconds gone when he flipped in a shot under the basket and was fouled in the act of shooting by Getty, who left the game at this point.

Gaffney Fouls Out

The Campers' Bob Gaffney exited at 2:32 when he fouled Garlitz, who converted both fouls. Bob Brown, on a jumper from the foul circle, regained the upper hand for Valley with 1:18 to go, but scrappy Wayne Shook drove the length of the floor for a layup to put the Cumberland back on top with 44 seconds remaining. This made the score 57-56, and proved to be the last scoring done by the Allegany five in the contest.

Brown made the deciding field goal seconds later on a jump shot from the side. Allegany, trying to set up a shot in the forecourt, lost the ball on an out-of-bounds violation with six seconds left. When Shook protested the call too vigorously, referee Enordo "Moose" Arnone plastered a technical foul on the Camper guard, Garlitz converted the foul, and the ball had been in play only two seconds when Shook, in a desperate effort to get possession, fouled McKenzie, who plunked in both tries to sew up the decision.

Hot First Period

The two clubs treated the throw to a slam-bang first period. Both teams were hitting with consistency and the quarter ended with Allegany on the long end of a 19-15 score. The tempo slackened considerably in the following stanza, however, and they left the floor at halftime with the count knotted, 23-23.

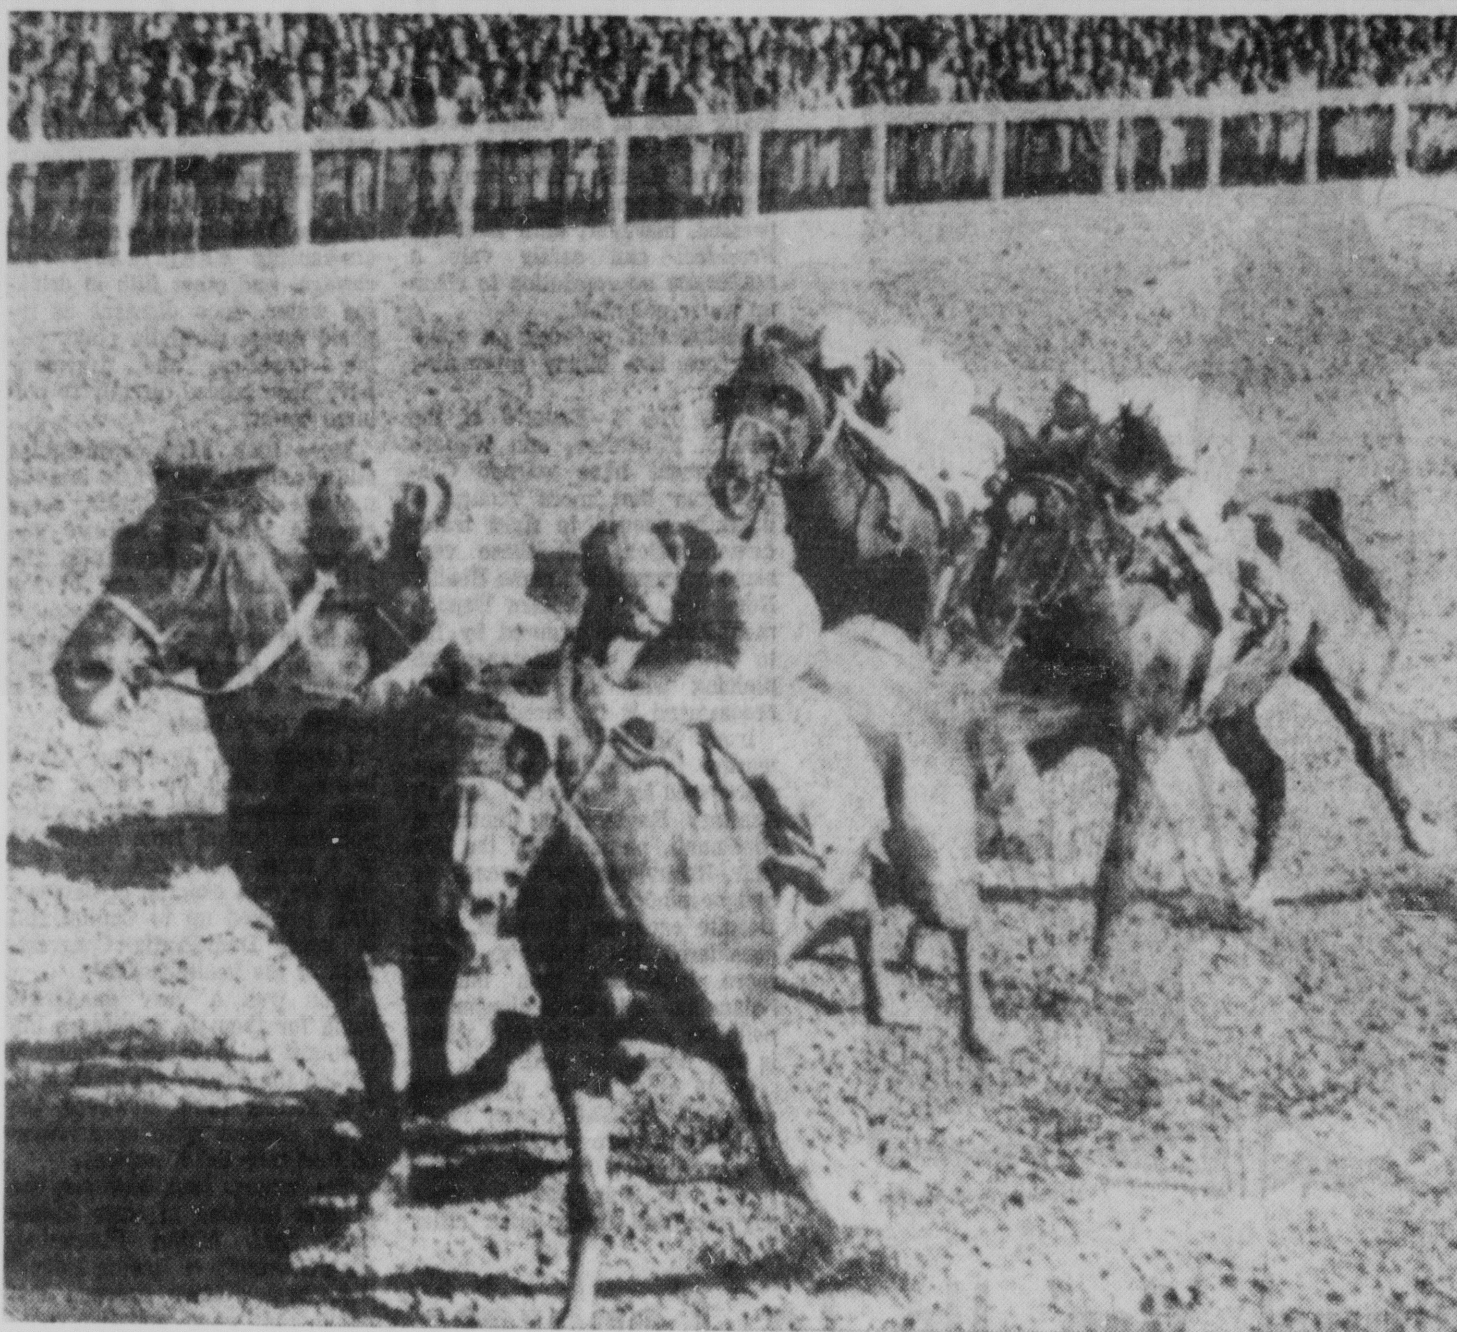

In all, the score was tied nine times, and the lead changed hands on eight different occasions. The biggest lead held by either team during the game was the eight-point edge enjoyed by Allegany in the fourth period.

Getty, who racked up 15 points in the final quarter, wound up as high scorer for the Knights with 22. Brown collected 13 and Garlitz, the team's leading scorer, added 12. Garlitz, who had four fouls on him with 5:24 remaining in the first half and sat out the rest of the second period and part of the third, hit on only two of 16 field goal attempts, but cashed in on eight of nine foul chances, getting them when they were needed.

Pope Score: 24

Pope was the game's high scorer with 24 points, and turned in another outstanding job under the boards. Gaffney tallied 14 points for the Campers.

The real margin of victory was right behind with 21 to lead the Mountaineers' scoring parade. George Twigg was the big man attempts, compared to 13-23 for the Fort Hill attack with 23 visitors, Allegany made 22 of markers.

LONGSHOT COPS BOWIE OPENER — Jay L. Kay, ridden by Jack Fieselman, moves up on the outside to win the first race at Bowie by a nose from Fluellen (No. 5) yesterday. Jay L. Kay did the mile and a sixteenth in 1:50 4/5, returning $73, $29 and $18.20. Fluellen paid $9.60 and $6.80 and Twinkler was the show horse at $18.80. The claiming race for 4-year-olds and up opened a 40-day meeting at the Maryland track.

Longden Injured
ARCADIA, Calif. (UPI) — Jockey Johnny Longden, 52, who leads the world in riding with 5,400 wins, Friday had his right ankle placed in a cast. X rays disclosed he suffered a broken bone when his mount fell at Santa Anita Thursday.

Longden's injuries had been believed no more than a bruise or two after the fall and he came to the track Friday to ride out the day's program. But when his right ankle began paining him, he had it X-rayed.

Keys Is The Key

Griffith Wins New York Bout

Decisions Ortega In 17th Pro Scrap

NEW YORK (AP)—Emile Griffith, a 21-year-old shipping clerk fighting his first Madison Square Garden main event in his 17th pro bout, won a split decision over experienced Gaspar Ortega of Mexico Friday night in a 10-round match. Ortega weighed 147 1/2, Griffith 147 1/2.

There were no knockdowns but young Griffith, born in the Virgin Islands, was too fast for the Mexican.

The decision was announced originally as unanimous. Announcer Johnny Addie later grabbed the microphone to make a correction. Referee Harry Ebbehts originally announced as an 8-7-1 voter for Griffith, actually had voted for Ortega 8-1-1. Judge Bill Recht saw it 8-1-1 for Griffith and Judge Artie Adala had it 7-3 for Griffith. The AP card was 6-3-1 for Griffith.

Griffith drew blood from Ortega's nose in the seventh. He didn't seem to be able to hurt the Mexican but his speed and sound counter punching piled up the points.

It was a most important victory for Griffith who had won 15 of 16 previous pro starts.

Jerry Wine's Goal Decides Battle, 63-61

Lions Suffer First PVC Loss At Oakland In Double Overtime

Piedmont High School suffered its first loss of the Potomac Valley Conference campaign last night when it fell before Southern High School's Highlanders in a double overtime "sudden death" battle at Oakland by the score of 63-61.

The loss made Piedmont's record 11-1 in the P.V.C. and gave Romney High's Pioneers sole possession of first place with a 14-0 record. The result practically sewed up the title for the Pioneers.

Coach Carl Schoonover's floor-men chalked up their 12th consecutive victory and made their season record 13-2. Southern is 4-0 in the P.V.C.

A field goal by Loran Twyman with one second to go tied the count at 61-61 in the regulation game. Both teams went scoreless in the first three-minute extra period and two minutes after the "sudden death" period got under way Jerry Wine tossed in the winning goal.

Terry Cole was the top scorer for Southern with 18 points. Wine and Dick Stuck collected 12 points each.

Ronald Foster headed the Piedmont attack with 17 tallies. Wayne Russell collected 15 and Richard Russell 13.

Ronnie Cosner's 21 points was high for Bayard while Lew Alt paced the Vikings of Petersburg with 16 tallies.

Lloyd Brill scored 11 points in the final period to lead Capon Bridge to victory over Mathias. Rova

Livie May Defer Plan To Change Maryland Racing Setup

Gov. Tawes Is Disturbed By Headline

Chairman Is Called Czar; Harford Co. Delegates Complain

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Word spread through the Maryland Legislature Friday that it will not be asked to make any changes in the State's horse racing setup this year.

Bruce Livie, chairman of the Racing Commission, had prepared a bill that would give it liberal discretionary power in transferring days from one track to another.

Legislators and Gov. Tawes learned of its contents through newspaper stories Thursday. The immediate reaction was unfavorable and the report now is that Livie has decided not to ask for it to be introduced.

Other sources said they heard that no racing legislation at all will come from the commission. This means that Livie's plan to have the half mile tracks at Cumberland and Bel Air closed and their 24 days divided among Pimlico, Laurel and Bowie also has fallen through for the time being at least.

Tawes admitted Friday he was "disturbed" at a newspaper headline stating the proposed bill would make Livie a czar.

The governor said he had no knowledge of the bill but that he will meet with Livie Monday. The conference was arranged at the request of Harford County delegates who complained to the governor they have not been consulted by Livie in his talk about closing Bel Air.

Hialeah Park Daily Double Pays $3,062

HIALEAH, Fla. (UPI) — The daily double at Hialeah Park Friday paid $3,062.80, just $63.50 short of the record set Jan. 27 when the pay-off was $3,126.30.

Terrace Park, making his first start of the year, started Friday's big payoff by winning the first race. With jockey Jack Sellers up, Terrace Park paid $170.70, $60.80 and $34.40 across the board.

Bobby Dever then rode Dublin Knight to victory in the second race to pay $25.20, $12.30 and $6.90. Dublin Knight had started once at the meeting this year, finishing eighth against better company.

Dave Miller, 73, Referee In Heavy Title Bouts, Dies

RACINE, Wis. (AP) — Dave Miller, boxing referee who officiated in two world heavyweight championship bouts, died Thursday. He was 73.

Miller was referee when Joe Louis defended his title by knocking out Harry Thomas in five rounds April 1, 1938, and when Ezzard Charles outpointed Jersey Joe Walcott in 15 rounds March 1, 1949.

Cepeda Rejects First Contract

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Orlando Cepeda is a San Francisco Giant holdout.

The sensational Puerto Rican, who hit .312 and .317, including 52 home runs, in two seasons, has been offered "a real big raise but wants a real bigger one," said Giant Vice President Charles Fenev Friday.

No terms were disclosed.

Dawkins Injured In Hockey Game

RICHMOND, England (UPI) — Pete Dawkins, former All-American Army halfback, suffered a possible fractured jaw while playing for Oxford University Friday in its annual ice hockey game against Cambridge University Friday night.

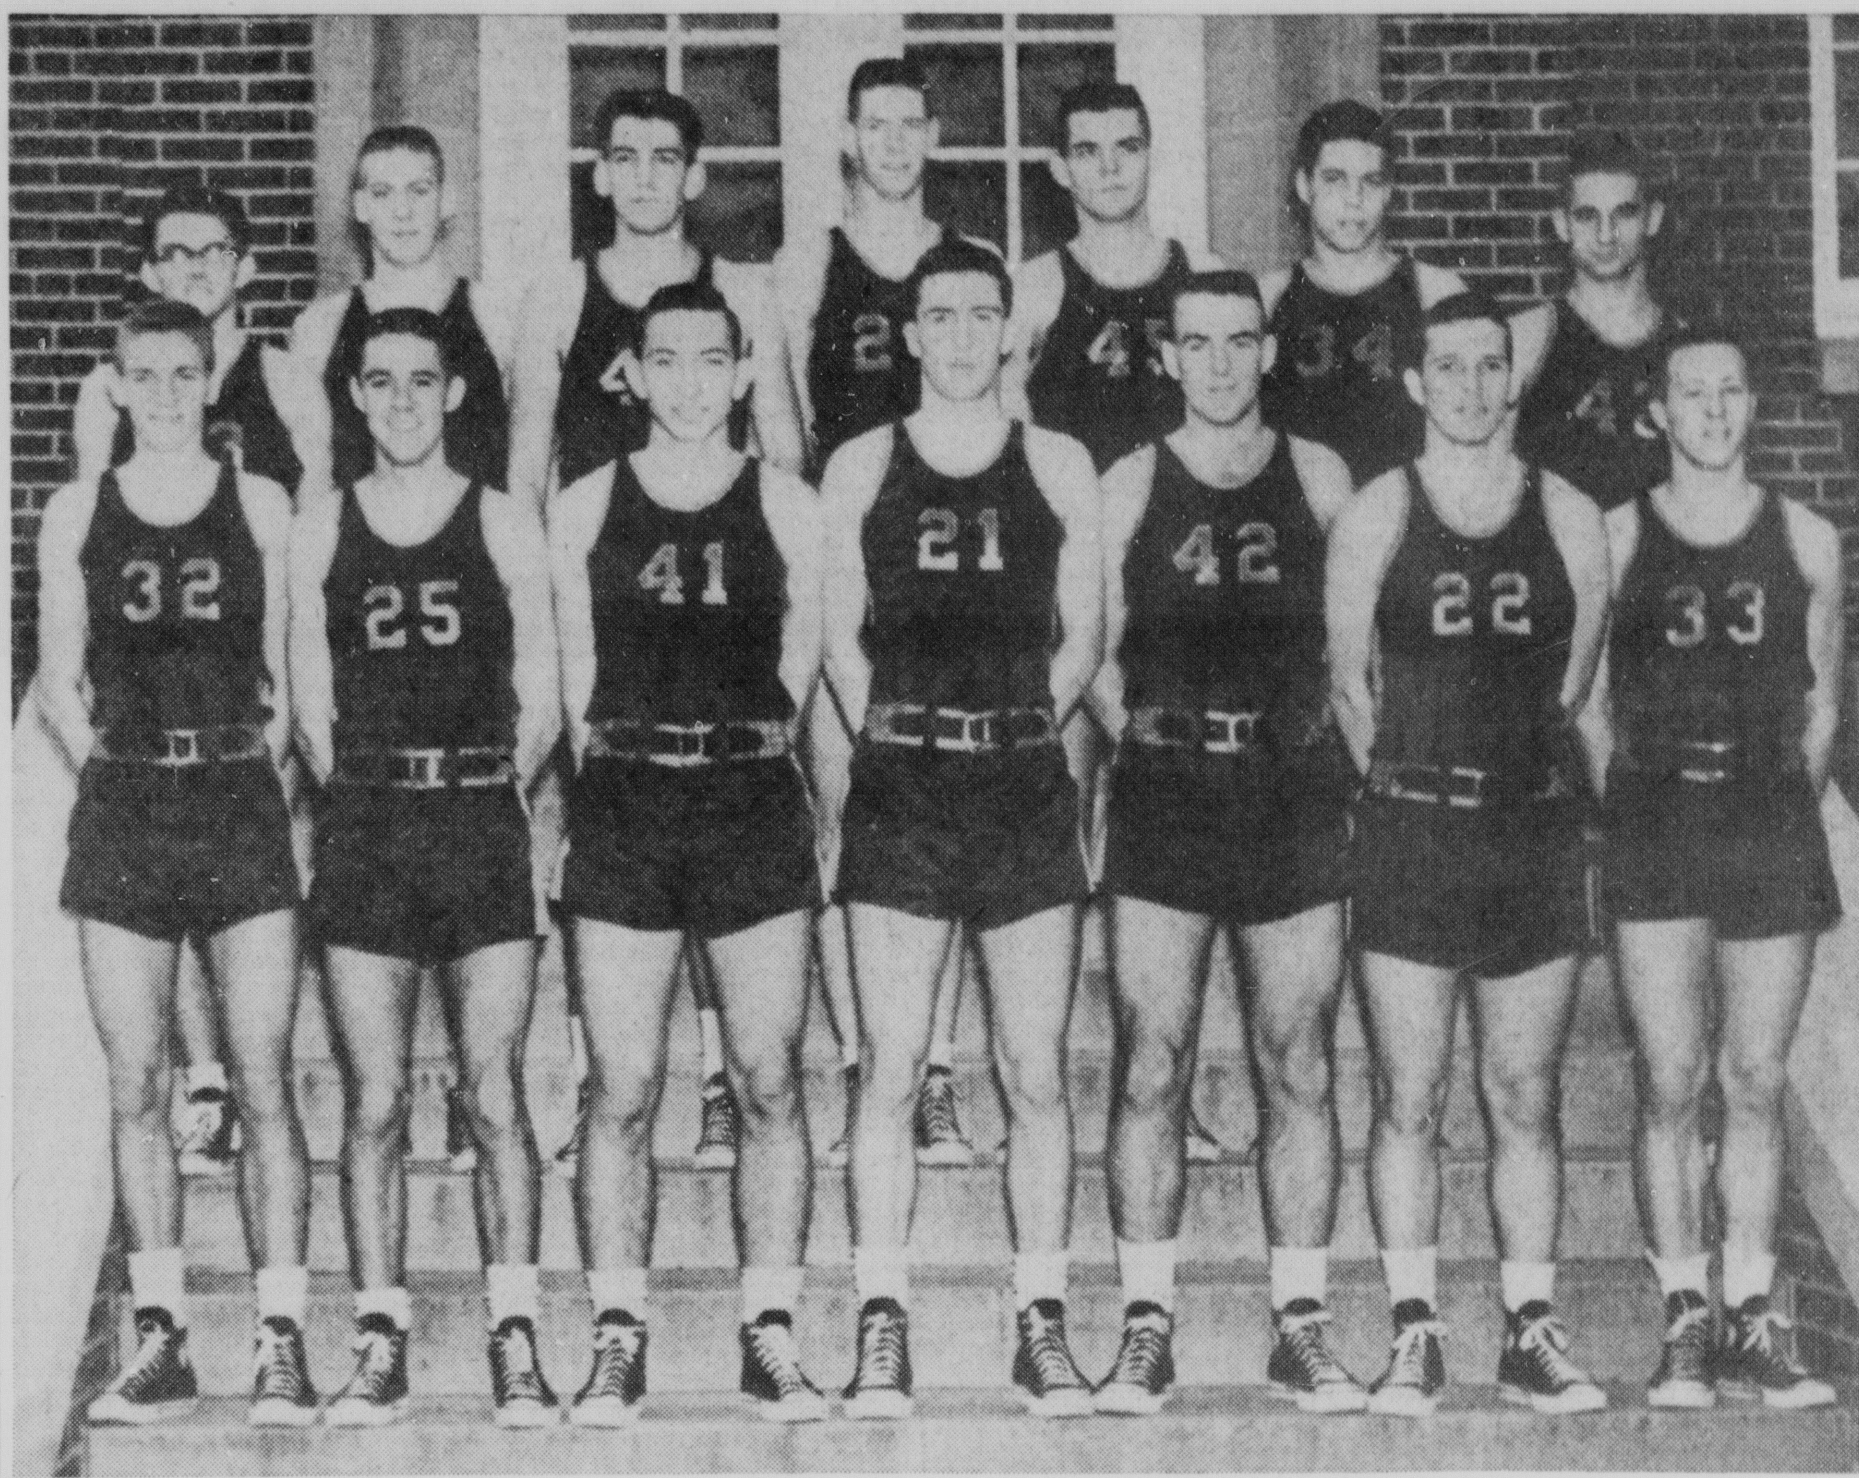

Dawkins suffered the injury during the last two minutes of the game, which Cambridge won, 6-5. Dawkins body-checked a Cambridge player, whose stick flew up and hit the former Army halfback flush in the face. Dawkins, an Oxford Rhodes scholar, slumped to the ice, then got up and walked off.

After the game, a Cambridge defenseman, Dr. Robert Ehrlich, examined Dawkins and said Pete may have suffered a broken jaw. Dawkins was taken to West Middlesex Hospital for X-ray examination.

26 Orioles Signed

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles now have 26 of their 40 players under contract for 1960 with the signing of first baseman Jim Gentile.

Head Field Of 14 At Santa Anita

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — They run the $50,000-added San Antonio Handicap at Santa Anita Saturday and it could feature another duel between First Landing and Bagdad.

The two star 4-year-olds head a field of 14 centered. The San Antonio at a mile and one-eighth is a major stepping stone to the $145,000 Santa Anita Handicap Feb. 27.

All 14 San Antonio entries are eligible for the mile and one-quarter Big Cap.

First Landing with Eddie Arcazo is high weighted at 124 pounds. Bagdad with Bill Shoemaker is second at 123. First Landing held on for a close win over fast-closing Bagdad in the Santa Anita Maturity Jan. 30.

The field in post position order: Royal Living, Promulgation, Bagdad, Civic Pride, King O'Turf, How Now, Notable, First Landing, Manassa Mauler, Linhold, Fleet Nasrullah, Top Charger, Crasher, and Eddie Schmidt.

If all 14 start the purse will gross $59,000, with $35,900 to the winner.

Mountaineers Play Richmond Tonight

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI)—West Virginia returns to the familiar Southern Conference Saturday as it attempts to rebound from its third defeat in 22 games.

The opposition will be the Richmond Spiders, now in eighth place in the nine-team league.

Despite nine straight losses, the Spiders never can be counted out against the Mountaineers who bowed to St. John's Thursday night in New York.

Last season, West Virginia thumped Richmond 98-67 in Morgantown, W. Va., but managed to win by only 64-62 here. And this season, WVU won by an 84-62 margin in Morgantown.

The Sports Patrol

By STEVE SNIDER

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sports of all sorts:

Dick Gallagher, new general manager of the Buffalo Bills in the American Football League, is convinced the fledgling AFL will develop some great teams in a hurry.

Formerly with the Cleveland Browns, Gallagher says, "The old All-America Conference was formed in 1946 and in 1948 the Browns had one of the best teams in pro football history... Most professional stars are developed after they turn pro... I'm thinking of players like Lou Groza, Dante Lavelli and Marion Motley, three of the greatest in the history of the game."

Foot-race experts like the looks of Dyrrol Burleson, 19-year-old Oregon sophomore who's favored in the Baxter Mile at Madison Square Garden Saturday night. He runs to win and while his clockings aren't exactly sensational, he makes a habit of knocking over runners with better records.

Burleson is AAU and Pan-American champ at his specialty. Pro tennis champ Pancho Gonzalez isn't disturbed by Jack Kramer's new "three bounce rule" aimed at curbing Pancho's rule-first service... "The best player can win under any set of rules," he insists—and proves.

To give you an idea of how fast that Daytona Beach Speedway is: Stock cars in Sunday's 500 mile sweepstakes expect to average close to 140 miles per hour to come home a winner... That's a good bit faster than Roger Ward averaged when he set his Indianapolis 500 record of 135.857 last year... Lee Petty won the Daytona Stock 500 a year ago at 135.521 in a '59 Olds.

One of these days there's gonna be a mixup in release dates—if anyone cares—on that filmed "World Championship Golf" television series... Dave Ragan and Mike Souchak battle on Sunday TV for a berth in the finals where a $25,000 jackpot is up for grabs... But sports desks across the country have had the details at hand for several days.

Good hunting grounds: Frank Robinson and Vada Pinson of the Cincinnati Reds attended the same school, McClymonds High at Oakland, Calif. Pinson led the Reds with .316 last season, led both leagues in doubles (.47) and runs scored (.131)... Robinson hit .311, clouted 36 homers, knocked in 125 runs.

Penn State has moved its all-steel football stadium to a new site for 1960 and increased the seating capacity... It'll hold 44,500 next season, up by 14,500.

It figures: Gerry Coleman of the Yankees and Carl Erskine of the Dodgers, two class guys and both handsome "collar ad" types, wound up working for the same shirt company... Coleman, former Yankee exec, also will do a pre-game baseball show on the national TV Game-of-the-Week.

It doesn't figure: Harry Tompkins, a rodeo pro for 14 years, currently is the top cowboy on the circuit... He started at Peekskill, N.Y., just up the old Hudson River trail from the Big Town. Sports customers in the Big Town like to boast they're the most discriminating anywhere...

Which undoubtedly accounts for the fact that midgets are back on the packed-house wrestling programs at Madison Square Garden... Next tag-team feature has Sky Low-Low and Fuzzy Cupid vs Little Beaver and the Brown Panther... How's that for class?

Bad news for fidgeters: Chattanooga, fastest-playing baseball team in the Southern Association, averaged two hours, 17 minutes per home game last year... New Orleans, league's slow pokes, averaged 2:36.

Howard Believes Young Twirlers Will Help Yanks

NEW YORK (AP)—Elston Howard said Friday he thinks the Yankees will have no trouble in winning the pennant this year if a couple of young pitchers come through.

The versatile Yankee catcher-first baseman-outfielder said the club had "the best group of young pitchers coming up this spring that I've seen since I joined the club in 1955."

"There's Bill Short, Jim Bronstad, Johnny James and John Gabler, among others," said Howard.

Howard discussed the Yankee potential after signing his 1960 contract. It was estimated that Howard received a $2,000 raise, boosting his salary to $30,000.

12-Man Committee Gives Approval

By ALAN CLINE

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (AP)

A major Olympic hurdle was cleared Friday when the men's downhill ski race course, a constant subject of controversy, was okayed by both officials and contestants.

A 12-man committee of experts approved the 2-mile course almost without change. The athletes, with but six days left before the start of the 1960 games, called it difficult and a fair test.

The downhill is the fastest and most hazardous ski race as contestants reach speeds of 70 miles an hour at times.

Another day of brilliant sunshine brought increased activity to this narrow valley — and an injury to Othmar Schneider, coach of the Austrian men's alpine team.

Schneider, an Olympic gold medalist in 1952, twisted an ankle while testing skis beside the men's downhill course. He fell hard in deep snow.

Hockey teams for the first time got their own rink for practice. Previously, they had been on a catch - as - catch - can schedule, grabbing whatever time was available on the ice arena rink.

The 400-meter speed skating oval was jammed with skaters. Some figure skaters were indoors and others outdoors on a second hockey rink.

Jumpers again soared off the 80-meter jumping hill, while American, French and Austrian girl skiers zig-zagged through practice slalom runs on Papoose peak.

The weatherman predicted continued fair weather through Sunday. Winds were light and temperatures ranged from 45 down to 18.

Livie May Defer Plan To Change Maryland Racing Setup

Gov. Tawes Is Disturbed By Headline

Chairman Is Called Czar; Harford Co. Delegates Complain

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Word spread through the Maryland Legislature Friday that it will not be asked to make any changes in the State's horse racing setup this year.

Bruce Livie, chairman of the Racing Commission, had prepared a bill that would give it liberal discretionary power in transferring days from one track to another.

Legislators and Gov. Tawes learned of its contents through newspaper stories Thursday. The immediate reaction was unfavorable and the report now is that Livie has decided not to ask for it to be introduced.

Other sources said they heard that no racing legislation at all will come from the commission. This means that Livie's plan to have the half mile tracks at Cumberland and Bel Air closed and their 24 days divided among Pimlico, Laurel and Bowie also has fallen through for the time being at least.

Tawes admitted Friday he was "disturbed" at a newspaper headline stating the proposed bill would make Livie a czar.

The governor said he had no knowledge of the bill but that he will meet with Livie Monday. The conference was arranged at the request of Harford County delegates who complained to the governor they have not been consulted by Livie in his talk about closing Bel Air.

The Sports Patrol

By STEVE SNIDER

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sports of all sorts:

Dick Gallagher, new general manager of the Buffalo Bills in the American Football League, is convinced the fledgling AFL will develop some great teams in a hurry.

Formerly with the Cleveland Browns, Gallagher says, "The old All-America Conference was formed in 1946 and in 1948 the Browns had one of the best teams in pro football history... Most professional stars are developed after they turn pro... I'm thinking of players like Lou Groza, Dante Lavelli and Marion Motley, three of the greatest in the history of the game."

Foot-race experts like the looks of Dyrrol Burleson, 19-year-old Oregon sophomore who's favored in the Baxter Mile at Madison Square Garden Saturday night... He runs to win and while his clockings aren't exactly sensational, he makes a habit of knocking over runners with better records... Burleson is AAU and Pan-American champ at his specialty.

Pro tennis champ Pancho Gonzalez isn't disturbed by Jack Kramer's new "three bounce rule" aimed at curbing Pancho's big first service... "The best player can win under any set of rules," he insists—and proves.

To give you an idea of how fast that Daytona Beach Speedway is: Stock cars in Sunday's 500 mile sweepstakes expect to average close to 140 miles per hour to come home a winner... That's a good bit faster than Rodger Ward averaged when he set his Indianapolis 500 record of 135.857 last year... Lee Petty won the Daytona Stock 500 a year ago at 135.521 in a '59 Olds.

One of these days there's gonna be a mixup in release dates—if anyone cares—on that filmed "World Championship Golf" television series... Dave Ragan and Mike Souhak battle on Sunday TV for a berth in the finals where a $25,000 jackpot is up for grabs... But sports desks across the country have had the details at hand for several days.

Good hunting grounds: Frank Robinson and Vada Pinson of the Cincinnati Reds attended the same school, McClymonds High at Oakland, Calif. Pinson led the Reds with 316 last season, led both leagues in doubles (47) and runs scored (131)... Robinson hit .311, clouted 36 homers, knocked in 125 runs.

Penn State has moved its all-steel football stadium to a new site for 1960 and increased the seating capacity... It'll hold 44,500 next season, up by 14,500.

It figures: Gerry Coleman of the Yankees and Carl Erskine of the Dodgers, two class guys and both handsome "collar ad" types, wound up working for the same shirt company... Coleman, former Yankee exc, also will do a pre-game baseball show on the national TV Game-of-the-Week.

most discriminating anywhere... Which undoubtedly accounts for the fact that midgets are back on the packed-house wrestling programs at Madison Square Garden... Next tag-team feature has Sky Low-Low and Fuzzy Cupid vs Little Beaver and the Brown Panther... How's that for class?

Bad news for fidgeters: Chattanooga, fastest-playing baseball team in the Southern Association, averaged two hours, 17 minutes per home game last year... New Orleans, league's slow pokes, averaged 2:36.

Howard Believes Young Twirlers Will Help Yanks

NEW YORK (AP)—Elston Howard said Friday he thinks the Yankees will have no trouble in winning the pennant this year if a couple of young pitchers come through.

The versatile Yankee catcher, first baseman-outfielder said the club had "the best group of young pitchers coming up this spring that I've seen since I joined the club in 1955."

"There's Bill Short, Jim Bronstad, Johnny James and John Gabler, among others," said Howard.

Howard discussed the Yankee potential after signing his 1960 contract. It was estimated that Howard received a $2,000 raise, boosting his salary to $30,000.

Keeping Up With Hollywood by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—When I went to who is now 16, is in school to see Natalie Wood and Bob Wag, the East and Cornel wants her. Natalie said she was about out here where she can have to sign for another picture but some family life with him and she couldn't break her promise his wife, Jean Wallace. Difficult and tell me the name. Today I to realize the little girl over learned that Natalie will get her whom Pat and Cornel fought so heart's desire and star in "Spindor in the Grass." William Inge's first original script written for Elia Kazan directly for the motion picture screen. The thing I know pleases Natalie is that she is to get Elia Kazan to direct. I must say she was very scrupulous in not giving me the name of the movie that kept her from accepting the offer to play "Suzie Wong."

I asked Bob about the rumors that he is to play opposite Brigitte Bardot in "A Yank in Paris." He said, "I haven't had a script as yet. There was some talk about it, but I haven't heard anything in a long time."

Natalie laughingly said, "I Bob goes to Paris to be in a picture with Bardot I will be right there with him." I can't say that I blame her.

Otto Preminger telephoned to give me some news and to say that he at no time passed me by without speaking. "You have a right to your opinion and I have a right to mine and I never quarrel with anybody who speaks his mind."

I asked Otto when he is marrying the lovely Hope Brice. I expected him to put me off, but he said, "We will be married in March when my divorce is final."

Then he went on to tell me that he had that day signed John Derek to play Taha, the Arab friend of Ari Ben Canaan to be played by Paul Newman in "Exodus."

Well, thank you, Otto, for the news. I still don't agree with you on hiring Dalton Trumbo, but since nothing I say seems to count, I will just have to keep quiet.

Nils Larsen called to say au revoir. He is returning to Spain to produce "Evil Sunday," which will star Richard Basehart and Eva Bartok. Eva, it seems, is back in pictures again and has been working in London.

Nils said that his wife, Pat Knight, is staying for a few days for conferences with Cornel Wilde. She was formerly married to Cornel and their daughter, Wendy,

Ann Landers . . . Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN: The other evening my husband and I attended a large outdoor meeting. The national anthem was played and we were asked to join in.

Most of the men removed their hats. Some did not. A few women removed their hats. Almost everyone rose, although a few remained seated. Some people placed their hands over their hearts, others saluted.

It was embarrassing because we had brought along a guest from a foreign country and he asked why so many people were doing different things. To be frank we couldn't tell our guest the proper procedure. Can you? —UNIFORMED.

DEAR ANN: When the national anthem is played EVERYONE should rise and stand at attention. Normally, at an outdoor event, the flag is on display when the anthem is played and this means hats off for the men. Women never remove their hats, under any circumstances.

If the flag is not on display, it is not necessary to place the hand over the heart or salute. People who do this are confusing the national anthem with the pledge of allegiance to the flag.

DEAR ANN: I just lost a wonderful boy friend. I'm 22 and old enough to have known better than to have let such a prize get away. Maybe if I put my experiences down on paper it will help for the future.

Bob told me point-blank what was wrong — in fact, he put it in a letter. If you see yourselves below. Sisters, wake up before it's too late.

(1) I never let Bob finish a sentence. I frequently interrupted him to correct him or supply a better word.

(2) I never waited for him to open a door, hail a taxi, or tell the driver where we were going.

(3) I always chose the restaurant, theater, movie, and even the couples we went with.

(4) I never let him select a gift for me. I was so practical I told him what I wanted and where it could be found. Once I even bought my own birthday gift and let him write me a check for the amount.

To sum it all up I was so aggressive I overwhelmed the poor.

Sheriff Backs Jail Proposal By Inspector

A report by the Maryland Board of Correction carrying a recommendation for the combined operation of the jails of Allegany and Garrett counties has the support of Sheriff Paul C. Haberlein.

The jails were inspected by J. B. Dellinger, executive director of the Prisoners Aid Association of Maryland, who stated that it was his opinion that the combined operation would be more economical and efficient than the present setup.

Dellinger in his report pointed out that the Allegany County Jail is one of the oldest in the state and difficult to maintain because of its age and rate of deterioration. Sheriff Haberlein supports this claim, explaining that there are several cells blocked off because of the deplorable state of plumbing in the nearly-90 years old institution.

The county lockup has a capacity of 59 prisoners. Haberlein said, although as many as 86 have been housed at one time.

During 1958, the total prisoner days amounted to 11,153, for a daily average of 30-plus.

Garrett County jail can house 66 prisoners, but during the same period there were 2,637 prisoner days, for a daily average of seven-plus. The rate of occupancy is so small, Dellinger reports, that only a portion of the lower cellblock is ever utilized.

Dellinger recommended that the Garrett institution be used to house offenders from both counties, thus taking advantage of its capacity and more modern facilities. The Allegany County jail, he added, could then be used only for prisoners awaiting trial, and thus permit the sheriff to function as a full-time peace officer for the county.

Pointing out the imbalance of prisoner population, Sheriff Haberlein said there are other factors to consider also. His staff of five deputies must not only help operate the jail, but transport prisoners and mental cases to institutions, accompany prisoners to the courts for trial and to conferences with their attorneys, and maintain a patrol of the county.

Haberlein said his staff is rotated so that three men work the day shift, and the other two evening hours. In emergencies all men are expected to practically "work around the clock," he continued, but this is kept at a minimum for the sake of an efficient operation.

The Haberlein family lives in quarters at the jail, with Mrs. Haberlein taking on the duties of matron when women prisoners are in custody. There is no remuneration for this duty, the sheriff said, while in Garrett County, the wife of the sheriff is allotted $50 a month to do the cooking and act as matron.

Allegany County provides three meals for prisoners, with the sheriff expected to provide the meals at the rate of 75 cents per day per prisoner. The food cost is charged to the County Commissioners.

In comparison, Garrett County provides three meals per day on a fee system of $1 per day, with any profit being retained by the sheriff.

Explaining that any action on the proposal by Dellinger is up to the discretion of the Allegany and Garrett commissioners, Sheriff Haberlein said he will support the proposal when he submits his budget to the county board next month.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Grain futures were regular in a mostly quiet market Friday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At the final bell, wheat was off 1/4 to 1/2, corn off 1/4 to 1/2, soybeans off 1/4 to 1/2.

Nearly wheat contracts failed for gains of about a cent on buying from local traders and export interests. Part of the rally was apparently inspired by the prospect of selling large amounts of red wheat to Poland.

Earlier in the session, there was brisk selling of July by local houses, and commercial houses bought on the decline. Deferred contracts closed easy.

Corn was easier in a mixed trade. Commission houses bought May as cash interest sold. Northwest houses sold the July local trades bought September and December contracts. Receipts were light, and spot corn was firm.

Export subsidies were granted on 200,000 bushels of corn, 50,000 bushels of oats, and 60,000 bushels of rye.

Oats were mostly firm, with locals and some elevators selling March and buying May.

Trading in rye was slow and featureless. Soybeans rallied from an easy opening to close steady to firm. Buying appeared as meal prices turned upward. Eastern houses sold May beans, and a processor bought March and sold July. Local traders were on the buying side.

Export circles reported that Brazil purchased 3,700,000 bushels of hard wheat and Greece took 600,000 bushels of corn. Outside markets were mostly higher.

College May Get Funds For One Dormitory

Tawes Inclined To Back $425,000 Unit

Frostburg State Teachers College may get funds for a new dormitory after all.

Governor J. Millard Tawes said yesterday he is inclined to approve a $425,000 dormitory for the college, according to an Associated Press dispatch.

The Governor said he originally had turned down the college's request for two dormitories but that now he feels it should have one.

If he does decide favorably on the dormitory request, Governor Tawes will include the money in amendments to the state bond bill.

Early in the session, Governor Tawes included $175,000 for Frostburg State Teachers College in the $13,516,100 he is recommending for capital improvements.

The Frostburg college's share included $20,000 for equipping a dining hall-student activities building; $60,000 to buy land and property on Maple Street for future women's dormitories; $35,000 to remodel the old laboratory school for classrooms and $60,000 to build roads and sidewalks to the new laboratory school.

Hospital Cost Analysis Firm Is Chartered

The State Health Department announced yesterday that the plan for an independent, non-profit firm to analyze and report on hospital care costs in Maryland has become a reality with the chartering of a new corporation, the Hospital Cost Analysis Service, Inc.

The new organization, developed by the State Health Department, Blue Cross and the Hospital Council of Maryland, will conduct systematic, on-the-site examinations of financial and statistical records at hospitals throughout the state to determine actual patient-care costs. These cost figures will be used by the state as the basis for payment for care rendered indigent and medically indigent patients, and by Blue Cross for determining payments to hospitals for the care of subscribers. Other purchasers of hospital care also may use the service.

Make Own Studies

The State Health Department and Blue Cross, at present, conduct separate studies of hospital costs. The new organization will provide one uniform system for cost finding throughout Maryland, with resultant economies to both the state and Blue Cross.

Control of the Corporation will be vested in a 10-man board of directors who will serve without pay. Four of the directors are to be appointed by the Governor from different geographical areas of the state, and one director designated by each of the following: The Maryland State Bar Association, the State Insurance Department, the State Department of Health, Blue Cross, the Maryland Association of Certified Public Accountants and the Hospital Council. Other directors may be added from time to time.

Will Share Costs
According to Health Department officials, the new corporation is expected to develop greater uniformity of accounting and cost finding and reporting by hospitals as recommended by the American Hospital Association.

Establishment of the new organization follows a recent directive of Governor Tawes to the State Health Department that adequate procedures be adopted to assure the effective use of State funds for the care of indigent and medically indigent patients.

The cost of establishing and maintaining the new service will be shared by the State Department of Health, Blue Cross and the Hospital Council.

Colorful Short Gap Man Will Observe His 98th Birthday On Valentine's Day

CHARLES H. KELLY
News Staff Writer

Ulysses G. Umstot, who has lived within a radius of three miles of Short Gap, W. Va., during the past 98 years, will mark that birthday anniversary tomorrow, Valentine's Day, at the home of a daughter with whom he resides.

When he was 19 years old he decided to go west and seek his fortune and got as far as Plainview, located near Chicago. His plans were to settle down as a farmer in the Midwest. However his stay endured about two months.

He became homesick when a woman who stayed at the home where he resided kept singing one of her favorite songs, "I Wonder If They Ever Pray For Me At Home." He packed up his belongings and headed East to his home.

Better known as "Gil" in the Short Gap area, Mr. Umstot got his greatest joy through the years in helping others by doing favors for them.

He is a native of Short Gap, where he has lived his entire life. His occupation in past years was that of a farmer and peach orchardist. Mr. Umstot has enjoyed good health during his lifetime.

His desire to live was proven about 15 years ago when he was severely burned and lay in a hospital bed for about 98 days. One day while out in his peach orchard clearing brush and burning it, the woods caught fire trapping Mr. Umstot.

His overalls, first were ignited and he was severely burned about his legs. A local doctor performed plastic surgery on the elderly man and he pulled through.

Within the past couple of weeks, Mr. Umstot met with an accident at home and fell, breaking a couple of ribs on his left side. Not content with being hospitalized, he made up his mind to go home to let his injuries heal. The other day he was in the back yard getting some wood off the wood pile.

As a youngster he went to school at George's Run and eventually began farming and raising peaches. One of his favorite sports as a young man was a popular pastime of the Short Gap area — horseback tournaments. Competitors from Frankfort and Headsville rode in the tournaments. To this day with the arrival of spring each year, Mr. Umstot says he has a yen to get back in the saddle as in days gone by.

A staunch Democrat, Mr. Umstot spent an hour participating in debates on almost any subject in Mineral and Hampshire counties. For quite a few years now his responsibility has been crowning the queen of the homecoming at Short Gap held each year.

Parsons Couple Loses Custody Of Foster Child

Governor Rejects Isners' Plea

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Gov. Cecil H. Underwood closed the door Friday on the last hope of Forrest and Edith Isner of Parsons to retain custody of three-year-old Rosemary.

During a 30-minute news conference dealing with the controversial Tucker County custody case, Underwood disclosed he had decided after "an exhaustive investigation" to direct the Department of Public Assistance to find new adoptive parents for the child.

Reading from a prepared seven-page statement, Underwood reviewed this history of the case which went all the way to the State Supreme Court.

The high court last fall upheld the validity of the foster home contract under which the Isners obtained Rosemary when she was one week old.

The governor said he came to the conclusion that the Isners "have been more concerned with their own emotional welfare than that of the child."

Underwood accused the couple of promoting "an extravagant publicity campaign" to gain public support for their efforts to gain permanent custody of Rosemary, and that "the news media have cooperated generously."

Cognizant Of Criticism
Cognizant of criticism his decision will receive in some quarters, Underwood said, "I recognize that I could make a very popular decision and leave this child with the present foster parents."

"If I were motivated by political considerations, I most certainly would decide it thusly. I cannot escape my responsibility to do what my judgment directs for the welfare of a child which is the same age as my own son."

Noting that the couple "refused to cooperate" when the DPA attempted to place the child for adoption when she was six months old, Underwood said "the facts clearly indicate" that the Isners "have not fulfilled their agreements or obligations."

Underwood said that at that time, Rosemary "was young enough to escape the emotional hazards of changing parents."

Brought Out Background
The governor said the Isners have used Rosemary "as an instrument."

Boat License Bill Goes To Legislature

Department Deletes Controversial Item

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — An act to license and regulate power and sail boats in Maryland was introduced in the Legislature Friday.

The State has until April to assume jurisdiction over regulating such boats or the federal government will license them.

The act, revised from one which failed at the last session, would require owners of any boats not manually propelled or registered with the federal government to register them with the Department of Tidewater Fisheries after June 1.

Would Cost $6

The fisheries department would have primary responsibility for administration of the act, although the Game and Inland Fish Department would be in charge of boats on inland waters.

Licenses would cost $6 and be effective for a three-year period. Fees would be used to administer the act and to develop waterways and other improvements for the boating public.

The proposed law also sets some regulations on water skiing. It prohibits skiing between sunset and sunrise and requires that there be a second person in the towing boat at least 12 years old to observe the progress of the person being towed.

Requires Reports

Reports of boating accidents would be required to be submitted to the Tidewater Fisheries Department within 48 hours if death or disappearance resulted, and within 5 days if personal injury or property damage was involved.

A controversial section which would have required that no person under 12 be allowed to operate a boat unless accompanied by an adult was deleted before the act was introduced.

It was sponsored by House Speaker Perry O. Wilkinson for the Tidewater Fisheries Department.

Teachers Pay Revolt Report Falls Flat

Eastern Shore Set To Follow Tawes

By GEORGE BOWEN

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Eastern Shore delegation wasted no time Friday killing an idea it is going to square off against Gov. Tawes on his teacher pay stand.

The 26 delegates, all belonging to the Democratic Party along with the governor, came out of a morning caucus to hear that a radio broadcast reported they were going to oppose him.

Del. Latham (D-Talbot), chairman of the delegation, took the House floor to state the unidentified broadcast was "completely false, erroneous and without foundation in fact."

Gov. Tawes is standing firm on the recommendation of a special committee headed by Sen. James (D-Harford) to give only veteran teachers a $300 raise next year.

The teacher organization has proposed raises for all that would cost 17 million dollars over a two-year period. The governor's plan would cost 4.3 million.

Ready To Follow

Two Eastern Shore legislators have offered different plans and a few of them were sponsors of the teacher organization's bill.

But a majority of them are believed ready to follow the governor's line as long as he wishes. The teacher pay proposal may break out into the open next week when the Ways & Means Committee tentatively plans to bring the governor's program to the House floor.

The first bill passed by the Senate in the current 30-day session was a measure recognizing rising interest rates. It would allow a maximum interest of 4 per cent instead of the present 3½ per cent on construction loan bonds which have been authorized but are still unmarketed.

The measure now goes to the House.

Asks Sterilization

Also passed and sent to the House was a resolution proposing the appointment of a commission to study the problem of public welfare costs resulting from the birth of illegitimate children. The resolution calls for establishment of the commission by the governor and for a report by this group next Oct. 1.

Shortly before Senate action on this proposal Sen. Sanford (D-Worcester) introduced a bill providing for the sterilization of any woman convicted of giving birth to more than two illegitimate children. The woman also would lose custody of her children, forfeit any rights to welfare payments, and be subject to a fine of up to $1,000 and imprisonment up to three years.

When you have a woman who has seven or eight illegitimate children and she keeps on having them at the expense of taxpayers," said Sanford "It's time to do something about it."

Clears 7 Bills

Meanwhile, the House cleared seven bills to the Senate as it wound up the 10th day of its 30-day session.

One will clear the way for a contribution of 90 per cent by the federal government of the cost of a new bridge over the Potomac River near Williamsport, Maryland and West Virginia will share the remaining 10 per cent.

The House also approved raising the salaries of the Court of Appeals judges $3,000 a year, creating a commission on alcoholism and allowing the Department of Motor Vehicles to withhold registration from motorists with traffic warrants against them outstanding.

Bill To Outlaw Slot Machines Is Planned

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—A state senator said Friday he will introduce a bill in the Legislature to outlaw gambling on slot machines in Maryland.

Sen. Harry T. Phoebus (R-Somerset) said he was preparing the measure for introduction next week.

Slot machines are legal in four counties in southern Maryland—Anne Arundel, Charles, Calvert and St. Marys.

Two years ago the Legislature outlawed plush slot machine casinos built on piers which extended from the Virginia shore and across the state line along the Maryland-owned Potomac River.

Phoebus' announcement came as David Hume, state Democratic Party treasurer and a resident of Charles County, proposed a congressional investigation of slot machine operations in this state. Hume wrote Rep. Harris (D-Ark.), chairman of the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, offering to assist in such a probe.

Gov. Tawes said two weeks ago he would support a study of the financial, social and moral effects of slot machines in Maryland.

College May Get Funds For One Dormitory

Tawes Inclined To Back $425,000 Unit

Frostburg State Teachers College may get funds for a new dormitory after all.

Governor J. Millard Tawes said yesterday he is inclined to approve a $425,000 dormitory for the college, according to an Associated Press dispatch.

The Governor said he originally had turned down the college's request for two dormitories but that now he feels it should have one.

If he does decide favorably on the dormitory request, Governor Tawes will include the money in amendments to the state bond bill.

Early in the session, Governor Tawes included $175,000 for Frostburg State Teachers College in the $13,516,100 he is recommending for capital improvements.

The Frostburg college's share included $20,000 for equipping a dining hall-student activities building; $60,000 to buy land and property on Maple Street for future women's dormitories; $35,000 to remodel the old laboratory school for classrooms and $60,000 to build roads and sidewalks to the new laboratory school.

Hospital Cost Analysis Firm Is Chartered

The State Health Department announced yesterday that the plan for an independent, non-profit firm to analyze and report on hospital care costs in Maryland has become a reality with the chartering of a new corporation, the Hospital Cost Analysis Service, Inc.

The new organization, developed by the State Health Department, Blue Cross and the Hospital Council of Maryland, will conduct systematic, on-the-site examinations of financial and statistical records at hospitals throughout the state to determine actual patient-care costs. These cost figures will be used by the state as the basis for payment for care rendered indigent and medically indigent patients, and by Blue Cross for determining payments to hospitals for the care of subscribers. Other purchasers of hospital care also may use the service.

Make Own Studies

The State Health Department and Blue Cross, at present, conduct separate studies of hospital costs. The new organization will provide one uniform system for cost finding throughout Maryland, with resultant economies to both the state and Blue Cross.

Control of the Corporation will be vested in a 10-man board of directors who will serve without pay. Four of the directors are to be appointed by the Governor from different geographical areas of the state, and one director designated by each of the following: The Maryland State Bar Association, the State Insurance Department, the State Department of Health, Blue Cross, the Maryland Association of Certified Public Accountants and the Hospital Council. Other directors will be shared from time to time.

Will Share Costs

According to Health Department officials, the new corporation is expected to develop greater uniformity of accounting and cost finding and reporting by hospitals as recommended by the American Hospital Association.

Establishment of the new organization follows a recent directive of Governor Tawes to the State Health Department that adequate procedures be adopted to assure the effective use of State funds for the care of indigent and medically indigent patients.

These two little girls have a birthday gift and a Valentine for their great-granddad, Ulysses G. Umstot, Short Gap, who will be celebrating his 98th birthday tomorrow when an "open house" will be held at the home of his daughter, Myra E. Umstot, with whom he resides. Katy Baker, left, three-year-old daughter of Mrs. Rachael Baker, Oldtown, presented Mr. Umstot with a birthday present and Julia Ann Schonger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Schonger, city, gave him a Valentine. # Colorful Short Gap Man Will Observe His 98th Birthday On Valentine's Day

News Staff Writer

Ulysses G. Umstot, who has lived within a radius of three miles of Short Gap, W. Va., during the past 98 years, will mark that birthday anniversary tomorrow, Valentine's Day, at the home of a daughter with whom he resides.

When he was 19 years old he decided to go west and seek his fortune and got as far as Plainview, located near Chicago. His plans were to settle down as a farmer in the Midwest. However, his stay endured about two months.

He became homesick when a woman who stayed at the home where he resided kept singing one of her favorite songs, "I Wonder If They Ever Pray For Me At Home." He packed up his belongings and headed East to his home.

Better known as "Gill" in the Short Gap area, Mr. Umstot got his greatest joy through the years in helping others by doing favors for them.

He is a native of Short Gap, where he has lived his entire life. His occupation in past years was that of a farmer and peach orchardist. Mr. Umstot has enjoyed good health during his lifetime.

His desire to live was proven about 15 years ago when he was severely burned and lay in a hospital bed for about 98 days. One day while out in his peach orchard clearing brush and burning it, the woods caught fire trapping Mr. Umstot.

His overalls, first were ignited and he was severely burned about his legs. A local doctor performed plastic surgery on the elderly man and he pulled through.

Within the past couple of weeks, Mr. Umstot met with an accident at home and fell, breaking a couple of ribs on his left side. Not content with being hospitalized, he made up his mind to go home to let his injuries heal. The other day he was in the back yard getting some wood off the wood pile.

As a youngster he went to school at George's Run and eventually began farming and raising peaches. One of his favorite sports as a young man was a popular pastime of the Short Gap area — horseback tournaments. Competitors from Frankfort and Headsville rode in the tournaments. To this day with the arrival of spring each year, Mr. Umstot says he has a yen to get back in the saddle as in days gone by.

A staunch Democrat, Mr. Umstot spent an hour participating in debates on almost any subject in Mineral and Hampshire counties. For quite a few years now his responsibility has been crowning the queen of the homecoming at Short Gap held each year.

Parsons Couple Loses Custody Of Foster Child

Governor Rejects Isners' Plea

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — Gov. Cecil H. Underwood closed the door Friday on the last hope of Forrest and Edith Isner of Parsons to retain custody of three-year-old Rosemary.

During a 30-minute news conference dealing with the controversial Tucker County custody case, Underwood disclosed he had decided after "an exhaustive investigation" to direct the Department of Public Assistance to find new adoptive parents for the child.

Reading from a prepared seven-page statement, Underwood reviewed the history of the case which went all the way to the State Supreme Court.

The high court last fall upheld the validity of the foster home contract under which the Isners obtained Rosemary when she was one week old.

Cognizant Of Criticism
Cognizant of criticism his decision will receive in some quarters, Underwood said, "I recognize that I could make a very popular decision and leave this child with the present foster parents."

"If I were motivated by political considerations, I most certainly would decide it thusly. I cannot escape my responsibility to do what my judgment directs for the welfare of a child which is the same age as my own son."

Noting that the couple "refused to cooperate" when the DPA attempted to place the child for adoption when she was six months old, Underwood said "the facts clearly indicate" that the Isners "have not fulfilled their agreements or obligations."

Underwood said that at that time, Rosemary "was young enough to escape the emotional hazards of changing parents."

Brought Out Background

Boat License Bill Goes To Legislature

Department Deletes Controversial Item

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — An act to license and regulate power and sail boats in Maryland was introduced in the Legislature Friday.

The State has until April to assume jurisdiction over regulating such boats or the federal government will license them.

The act, revised from one which failed at the last session, would require owners of any boats not manually propelled or registered with the federal government to register them with the Department of Tidewater Fisheries after June 1.

Would Cost $6

The fisheries department would have primary responsibility for administration of the act, although the Game and Inland Fish Department would be in charge of boats on inland waters.

Licenses would cost $6 and be effective for a three-year period. Fees would be used to administer the act and to develop waterways and other improvements for the boating public.

The proposed law also sets some regulations on water skiing. It prohibits skiing between sunset and sunrise and requires that there be a second person in the towing boat at least 12 years old to observe the progress of the person being towed.

Requires Reports

Reports of boating accidents would be required to be submitted to the Tidewater Fisheries Department within 48 hours if death or disappearance resulted, and within 5 days if personal injury or property damage was involved.

A controversial section which would have required that no person under 12 be allowed to operate a boat unless accompanied by an adult was deleted before the act was introduced.

It was sponsored by House Speaker Perry O. Wilkinson of the Tidewater Fisheries Department.

CHARLES H. KELLY
News Staff Writer

Ulysses G. Umstot, who has lived within a radius of three miles of Short Gap, W. Va., during the past 98 years, will mark that birthday anniversary tomorrow, Valentine's Day, at the home of a daughter with whom he resides.

When he was 19 years old he decided to go west and seek his fortune and got as far as Plainville, located near Chicago. His plans were to settle down as a farmer in the Midwest. However his stay endured about two months.

He became homesick when a woman who stayed at the home where he resided kept singing one of her favorite songs, "I Wonder If They Ever Pray For Me At Home." He packed up his belongings and headed East to his home.

Better known as "Gil" in the Short Gap area, Mr. Umstot got his greatest joy through the years in helping others by doing favors for them.

He is a native of Short Gap, where he has lived his entire life.
His occupation in past years was that of a farmer and peach orchardist. Mr. Umstot has enjoyed good health during his life.

His desire to live was proven several years ago when he was severely burned and lay in a hospital bed for about 98 days. One day while out in his peach orchard, a fire broke out in the woods caught and burning
Mr. Umstot.

His overalls, first were ignited and he was severely burned about his legs. A local doctor performed surgery on the elderly man and he pulled through.

Within the past couple of weeks,
Mr. Umstot met with an accident at home and fell, breaking a cou-
content with being hospitalized, he let his mind go home to take day he was in the back yard getting some wood off the woodpile.

As a youngster he went to school at George's Run and eventually began farming and raising peaches. One of his favorite sports as a young man was a area — horseback tournaments.

Headed by Frankfort and Headquarters from Frankfort and ment. To this day with the arrival of spring each year, Mr.
Umstot says he has a yen to get back in the saddle as in days gone by.

A staunch Democrat, Mr. Um-stot spent an hour participating in debates on almost any subject in Mineral and Hampshire counties. For quite a few years now his responsibility has been crowning the queen of the homecoming at Short Gap held each year.

BALTIMORE (AP) — A. T. and the Chesapeake Assn. of the erick newspaperman, replied with
honored at a luncheon meeting of his fellow newspapermen.

A resolution was read which had been passed by the House of Delegates, praising him for distinguished service in several fields.

The newspapermen presented him with a plaque "in recognition of great service to Maryland journalism from 'admiring colleagues.'"

"I want to say how much I appreciate this gesture from the House of Delegates," he said. "Of course, since I was a member of the House in 1914, I can understand how easy it was to get a resolution like this through."

City Editor Brust, for 47 years, a member of the staff of the Frederick News, also thanked members of the Maryland Press Assn.

Boat License Bill Goes To Legislature

Department Deletes
Controversial Item

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — An act to license and regulate power and sail boats in Maryland was introduced in the Legislature Friday.

The State has until April to assume jurisdiction over regulating such boats or the federal government will license them.

failed at the last session, would require owners of any boats not manually propelled or registered with the federal government to register them with the Department of Tidewater Fisheries after June 1.

Would Cost $6

The fisheries department would have primary responsibility for administration of the act, although the Game and Inland Fish Department would be in charge of boats on inland waters.

Licenses would cost $6 and be effective for a three-year period.
Fees would be used to administer the act and to develop waterways and other improvements for the boating public.

The proposed law also sets some regulations on water skiing.
It prohibits skiing between sunset and sunrise and requires that there be a second person in the towing boat at least 12 years old to observe the progress of the person being towed.

Requires Reports

Reports of boating accidents would be required to be submitted to the Tidewater Fisheries Department within 48 hours if death or disappearance resulted, and within 5 days if personal injury or property damage was involved.

A controversial section which would have required that no person under 12 be allowed to operate a boat unless accompanied by an adult was deleted before the act was introduced.

It was sponsored by House Speaker Perry O. Wilkinson for the Tidewater Fisheries Department.

B&O Tracks Are Cleared Near Swanton

B&O workers yesterday afternoon had all the tracks clear about a half mile east of Swanton after they became blocked Thursday when 10 cars of an 84-car eastbound freight derailed.

A spokesman for the railroad said last night the third and final track had been cleared by 3:30 p. m. yesterday. One westbound track was cleared by 4 p. m.
Thursday.

route from Grafton to Cumberland when the cars jumped the tracks. Crews from Keyser and Grafton were sent to the scene of the wreck to clear the tracks.

Cancer Society Moves To New Quarters

The Allegany County Chapter of the American Cancer Society this week moved into its new office in the Memorial Building at 128 Union Street.

The Cancer's unit's office is located on the second floor of the Union Street building which is across the street from the County Building.

The health agency formerly was located on the second floor of the County Building, but space in that building soon will be occupied by the County Health Department.

Offices of the Cancer Society had been located in the County Building since a local chapter was formed here several years ago.

Teachers Pay Revolt Report Falls Flat

Eastern Shore Set
To Follow Tawes

By GEORGE BOWEN

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Eastern Shore delegation wasted no time Friday killing an idea it is going to square off against Gov.
Tawes on his teacher pay stand.

The 26 delegates, all belonging to the Democratic Party along with the governor, came out of a morning caucus to hear that a radio broadcast reported they were going to oppose him.

Del. Latham (D-Talbot), chairman of the delegation, took the House floor to state the unidentified broadcast was "completely false, erroneous and without foundation in fact."

Gov. Tawes is standing firm on the recommendation of a special committee headed by Sen. James (D-Harford) to give only veteran teachers a $300 raise next year.

The teacher organization has proposed raises for all that would cost 17 million dollars over a two-year period. The governor's plan would cost 4.3 million.

Ready To Follow

Two Eastern Shore legislators have offered different plans and a few of them were sponsors of the teacher organization's bill.

But a majority of them are believed ready to follow the governor's line as long as he wishes.
The teacher pay proposal may break out into the open next week when the Ways & Means Committee tentatively plans to bring the governor's program to the House floor.

The first bill passed by the Senate in the current 30-day session was a measure recognizing rising interest rates. It would allow a maximum interest of 4 per cent instead of the present 3½ per cent on construction loan bonds which have been authorized but are still unmarketed.

The measure now goes to the House.

Asks Sterilization

Also passed and sent to the House was a resolution proposing the appointment of a commission to study the problem of public welfare costs resulting from the birth of illegitimate children. The resolution calls for establishment of the commission by the governor and for a report by this group next Oct. 1.

Shortly before Senate action on this proposal Sen. Sanford (D-Worcester) introduced a bill providing for the sterilization of any woman convicted of giving birth to more than two illegitimate children. The woman also would lose custody of her children, forfeit any rights to welfare payments, and be subject to a fine of up to $1,000 and imprisonment up to three years.

When you have a woman who has seven or eight illegitimate children and she keeps on having them at the expense of taxpayers," said Sanford "It's time to do something about it."

Cleaves 7 Bills

Meanwhile, the House cleared seven bills to the Senate as it wound up the 10th day of its 30-day session.

One will clear the way for a contribution of 90 per cent by the federal government of the cost of a new bridge over the Potomac River near Williamsport, Maryland and West Virginia will share the remaining 10 per cent.

The House also approved raising the salaries of the Court of Appeals judges $3,000 a year, creating a commission on alcoholism and allowing the Department of Motor Vehicles to withhold registration from motorists with traffic warrants against them outstanding.

Bill To Outlaw Slot Machines Is Planned

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — A state senator said Friday he will introduce a bill in the Legislature to outlaw gambling on slot machines in Maryland.

Sen. Harry T. Phoebus (R-Somerset) said he was preparing the measure for introduction next week.

Slot machines are legal in four counties in southern Maryland—Anne Arundel, Charles, Calvert and St. Marys.

Two years ago the Legislature outlawed plush slot machine casinos built on piers which extended from the Virginia shore and across the state line along the Maryland-owned Potomac River.

Phoebus' announcement came as David Hume, state Democratic Party treasurer and a resident of Charles County, proposed a congressional investigation of slot machine operations in this state.
Hume wrote Rep. Harris (D-Ark.), chairman of the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, offering to assist in such a probe.

Gov. Tawes said two weeks ago he would support a study of the financial, social and moral effects of slot machines in Maryland.
